Modi's ministers get efficiency schooling

First in-person meeting of the council of ministers; presentation on Covid vaccination drive also made

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday held a marathon meeting of his council of ministers at Rashtrapati Bhavan auditorium. It was their first in-person meeting since the expansion of the ministry in July last.

It is learnt that the meeting was designed to be a brainstorming session. The BJP had recently held seven such brainstorming sessions on specific themes.

The meeting came in the backdrop of the NDA government seeking to expedite the implementation of the BJP's vision documents for the 2019 Lok Sabha elections amid important Assembly polls early next year.

The meeting went on for about four hours, sources said. It also took place on a day when the BJP named Modi as its prime ministerial candidate in 2013. Then BJP chief Rajnath Singh had announced Modi as the PM candidate of the party on September 14 that year.

Government officials were stoic in their silence over what transpired during the meeting. However, it is understood that the ministers were given an account of the status of the Covid-19 vaccination in the country in the backdrop of the threat of a third wave of the pandemic and the approaching festive season.

Chintan shivir

Presentations were made at the Chintan Shivir by Mandaviya and Pradhan on efficiency and time management. Four more such Chintan Shivirs will be held, sources said

One source said issues concerning the agriculture ministry were also taken up during the marathon meeting, but there were no official confirmation. The NDA government at the Centre continues to grapple with the farmers' protests over three farm sector reform laws passed by Parliament. Their agitation has gone on for over nine months, with the BJP bracing for its electoral fallout in Uttar Pradesh and Punjab, which are due to go to the polls next year.

Incidentally, the prime minister had held two such online meetings with his council of ministers after the reshuffle during which he had tasked the newcomers to study in-depth the BJP's vision documents for the 2014 and 2019 Lok Sabha elections and draw up an actionable agenda for the short and medium terms.

Investors want Goenka out of Zee

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

INDIAN promoters are increasingly confronted with shareholder activism, backed by institutional investors and proxy advisory firms. The latest to face the heat is Zee Entertainment Enterprises (ZEEL) with its largest shareholders calling for ouster of MD Punit Goenka, son of the Essel Group chairman Subhash Chandra, and appointing six new independent directors.

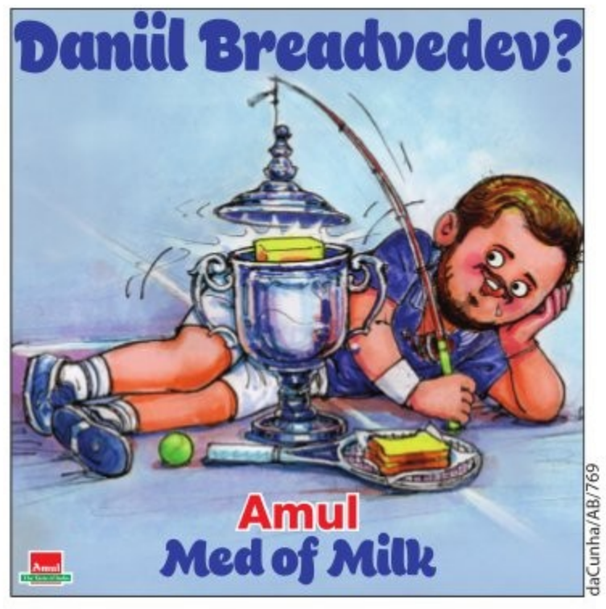
Invesco Developing Markets Fund and OFI Global China Fund, which together hold 17.88% stake in ZEEL, have called an extra-ordinary general meeting for the removal of Goenka and independent directors Ashok Kurien and Manish Chokhani.

Analysts, however, are not amused as they say the exit of the Goenka family, which currently owns just 3.99% in ZEEL, is a matter of time. "There is a good professional team in key departments below the MD level. The question is, will they stay if Goenka leaves?" said Abneesh Roy, executive director (research), Edelweiss Securities.

Meanwhile, at the AGM on Tuesday, Goenka did not disclose anything on issues related to the call for management change. Rather, he chose to defend the corporate governance track record of the company. The verdict on key resolutions that were up for voting at the AGM, including adoption of financial results, will be out on September 16. All eyes are now on the crucial EGM, which will officially decide the fate of Goenka.

2 directors step down

Ahead of the AGM on Tuesday, independent directors Ashok Kurien and Manish Chokhani resigned from the board, ZEEL said



Don't raze temples in a hurry, CM tells officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

DEMOLITION of religious structures has taken a twist with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday directing officials across the State not to demolish temples in a hurry. Bommai said he will answer the issue of demolition of temples in Mysuru district on the floor of the House.

He said that a show-cause notice has been issued to Mysuru Deputy Commissioner Dr Bagadi Gautham and Tahsildar Mohana Kumari for not taking people into confidence before demolishing temples in the district. He said that the government will study the 2009 Supreme Court order in detail and discuss it at the cabinet meeting. Detailed instructions will be issued in two days, he added.

After legislators from all parties and Hindu organisation protested against the demolition of Hucchagani Mahadevappa temple at Nanjangud in Mysuru district, the State Government on Tuesday decided to halt all demolitions across the state.

Revenue Minister R Ashoka told The New Indian Express that the Supreme Court order on the demolition of places of worship, including temples, constructed unauthorisedly, is not new as the directions came 12 years ago. "Officials in Mysuru have taken action based on the court order. But at the same time, people's sentiments should have been respected," he added.

"The apex court order states that temple authorities should be allowed to shift places of worship on their own. Officials were supposed to convince them. But without doing that, officials in Mysuru proceeded to demolish the temple, which is not right," he said.

Among these, 17 have already been removed, the DC said. "We are taking all precautions to remove and relocate these temples, ensuring that they don't suffer any damage duirng the process," Hiremath said.

Now, Bellandur flyover may go down for Metro

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

AFTER the demolition of Rs 21 crore Jayadeva flyover in 2020 to make way for Namma Metro lines, the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd (BMRCL) is targeting the Bellandur Flyover and a series of five foot over bridges between Central Silk Board and Kadubeesanahalli Underpass to make way for the Metro line. Also set for demolition are hoardings, signage, bus shelters and FoBs (including the one in Bellandur) for the Outer Ring Road Metro line.

BMRCL wrote to the road infrastructure division of Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike in July to either dismantle the five foot over bridges or give it permission to demolish them. Even as the reply is awaited, BMRCL is planning to shoot off another letter by including Bellandur flyover in the list of structures to be demolished. They have said that a BBMP Engineer should be assigned to work in coordination with BMRCL during demolitions. "If things go as per plan, Bellandur Flyover will be the second flyover to be demolished to make way for a Metro line," said a BMRCL official, requesting anonymity.

HAL TO MANUFACTURE PARTS FOR ADOUR GLOBAL SUPPLY CHAIN OF ROLLS-ROYCE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS part of an agreement signed with Rolls-Royce, Defence Public Sector Undertaking (PSU) Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) will supply spares for the Adour Global Supply chain and support the multi-national company's defence customer base globally. Adour is a twin-spool, counter-rotating turbofan engine by Rolls-Royce.

The agreement was signed between B Krishna Kumar, Executive Director (Engine & IMGT), HAL, and Abhishek Singh, senior vice-president - Defence, India and South East Asia, Rolls-Royce, in Bengaluru on Tuesday.

This follows an MoU signed between the two firms during the Aero India 2021 in February to establish an authorised maintenance centre for Adour at HAL.

The agreement strengthens the ecosystem for Adour engines in India by building on HAL's existing capabilities for manufacturing and supporting Adour engines for Indian customers over several decades, HAL said.

R Madhavan, Chairman & Managing Director, HAL, said, "We look forward to working with Rolls-Royce to serve global market for supply of spares and MRO (maintenance, repair and overhaul) of Adour engines." This is the first order for supply of spares for the Adour Global Supply chain, he said, expressing hope that that the partnership would expand the defence sourcing footprint in India.

Kishore Jayaraman, president, Rolls-Royce India and South Asia, said it is a significant step in strengthening the defence manufacturing ecosystem in the country that will "catapult India's vision for the defence sector to 'make in India' for the world".

Kids walk 5 km, cross two streams... all for studies

With bags on their backs, students cross a stream on foot as they head to school, near Kokkaragundi village in Gadag district | EXPRESS

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

IT is a tough life for the children of Kokkaragundi village in Gadag district as they walk 5 km and cross two streams to reach their school every day. Their troubles only increase when it rains with the streams flowing in full force.

It was not all this bad before the pandemic struck as the North Western Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (NWKRTC) was running regular bus services to the village. But since the two lockdowns, the number of buses plying to the village has been reduced to just two, one at 7 am and the other at 9 pm.

The students too were not troubled as schools were closed and they stayed put in the village. But with classes six to 12 reopening over the last few weeks, nearly 50 children from the village have to face extreme hardship to continue their studies.

As this village in Shirahatti taluk does not have a school, these children can go either to Bellatti or Balehousur, which are 5-6 km away.

It is a daily nightmare for the parents too, as they are worried about the safety of their children.

Restart buses: Villagers

Villagers have now demanded that the transport corporation resume services, at least to help students reach and come back from school.

Villagers said, "We brought it to the notice of NWKRTC officials two weeks ago and they said the services would start soon. But we are still waiting. We are thinking of launching a protest in two to three days, and informed the Shirahatti tahsildar office on Tuesday morning about it."

A NWKRTC official of Shirahatti stated, "We have informed our higher officials. We will start the services as Covid numbers have gone down."

SAFER STREETS

A burgeoning city's need: Pedestrian-friendly roads

Between 2017 and 2020, walkers accounted for 37% of road fatalities

Bengaluru's roads give more priority to vehicles | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

PRESENTLY, the city roads aren't pedestrian-friendly including the footpaths and foot over bridges. "People walk on roads leading to accidents and deaths", said B R Ravikanthe Gowda, Joint Commissioner, Traffic. The road should be a shared resource between pedestrians and vehicles. The most vulnerable sections are children. Some schools are located on the roads and the gates of these educational institutions open directly to the road. Moreover, there are no parking spaces. Along with the traffic police department, the education department and schools should come together to improve road quality.

Speaking at the #ConnectKaro2021- discussion on Enabling Safer Streets for Bengaluru, organised by WRI India, Gowda cited the example of the stretch connecting Peenya to Yeshwanthpur and said, "Many pedestrian accidents occur because the driver's vision is obstructed due to Metro pillars." He also pointed out that the height of medians and footpaths should be 1.25 metres.

On this occasion, WRI India and Underwriters Laboratories launched a web-based tool called Safer Access to Schools (SAST), which enhances school safety in Bengaluru.

According to the WRI India analysis which is based on traffic police data, revealed that pedestrians accounted for 37 per cent of road traffic fatalities between 2017-2020; 50 per cent pedestrian deaths occurred on arterial roads, 64 per cent of deaths happened near the intersections and 20 per cent near metro and bus stations. The National Crime Records Bureau report--2019, showed that 90 per cent of fatalities were due to overspeeding.

Dr Gautham M S, Assistant Professor, Epidemiology and Public Health said that for every death, 30 severe and 70 moderate injuries happen. "One and half years ago, along with the education department, a project on road safety for schools was undertaken. The need for a tool for safety around schools was realised and a student tracking system was almost ready, but it was stalled due to the pandemic. Now, this tool with WRI's can be layered for better safety," he adds.

Bicycle sharing, micro mobility set to get push

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS part of the exercise to improve urban mobility and Comprehensive Mobility Plan, the Directorate of Urban Land Transport (DULT) on Tuesday, issued a notification seeking to set up and operate Public Bicycle Sharing (PBS) and Shared Micro-Mobility System (SMMS) in Bengaluru.

Through these schemes, the DULT aims to extend the provision of a grant permitting coverage of the entire BBMP jurisdiction and improving the first- and the last-mile connectivity. The PBS system covers bicycles and pedal-assisted e-bicycles without throttle and SMMS covers electric mopeds and e- bicycles without throttle.

The objective of the exercise, according to the notification, is to encourage the use of PBS and SMMS. The notification lays out the details of cycle tracks, where the PBS and SMMS hubs are permitted and the criteria for stakeholders and operators to set stations.

The notification states that while PBS fleet is permitted on dedicated cycle tracks and shared paths, the SMMS is not. The operators will run the PBS and SMMS on a private basis.

KR Circle junction gets makeover with fountain

As part of the exercise to improve traffic junctions, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is not just remodelling and improving 30 of them, but it has also decided to give a special touch by creating small water fountains or waterfalls at these places. The first in line is KR Circle junction which has been improved at a cost of Rs 1 crore and a water fountain has been installed at the cost of Rs 1.25 crore. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is inaugurating it on Wednesday and has approved improvement of all junctions. "A coffee table book of all the junctions will also be released on the occasion," he said.

Confusion reigns over marked seats on Metro

S. LALITHA @Bengaluru

DESPITE 100% seating being allowed on Metro trains since July 5 when Unlock 3.0 was announced in Karnataka, the continued presence of stickers pasted on alternate seats inside every train forbidding seating has confused many commuters. One section even happily places their bags where the stickers are placed while another section demands they be allowed to occupy the seats.

A six-coach train can seat up to 300 commuters but only 150 were allowed to be seated when Metro restarted on June 21 after the Covid-19 second wave. The restriction was removed a fortnight later.

The problem is particularly pronounced in newly added Metro lines as the whole experience is new to commuters and they are keen to adhere to rules.

At Silk Institute, the terminal station for the extended Green Line, one can observe commuters seated on alternate seats while a few were standing. V Subramanya, an electrical engineer, was among those who boarded the train. When asked about social distancing inside the trains, he says, "I definitely maintain it. Wherever I see this sticker, I never sit there. This helps us all stay safe." When informed that the restriction has been relaxed, he pointed to the stickers and claimed it had not happened.

In an incident that occurred last week inside a train on the Green Line, a middle-aged woman sat on a 'Do Not Sit' seat and two college girls seated nearby, advised her in public view that she could not sit on alternate seats. The woman explained that the restrictions owing to the pandemic had eased and one can sit wherever one likes. "We made it clear to her that she was violating the rules and finally, stood up for our own safety and travelled standing," one of the students Shreya V Kashyap told TNIE.

Despite many standees inside the coaches, a few seated commuters had placed their lunch or laptop bags on their adjacent seats under the assumption that no one is permitted to sit there.

Rakesh Patil, a government employee was seen standing despite a few seats available. "I am aware of the relaxation in the rule. However, when you see Home Guards inside the coaches booking passengers for offences, there is a fear one could penalise us also. So, I play safe and avoid seats with stickers," he said. Commuter S Pavithra said there need to be regular announcements that one can occupy all seats as the stickers send a contrary message.

Clear illegal shops in 3 months, HC tells BBMP

Bengaluru: The Karnataka High Court on Tuesday granted three months to the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) to take action against a large number of shops that are constructed illegally on pavements, passage and fire exits including areas that are occupied unauthorisedly in KR Market, by following the procedure in accordance with the law. A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after the counsel of BBMP informed the court that they have initiated action against the encroachers and unauthorised occupants in KR Market. A batch of petitions was filed in the High Court alleging that a large number of shops have been illegally constructed in the market and several of them are still being occupied despite the expiry of their lease periods.

Poor planning by agencies irks citizens

"THE finer details are being worked out and approvals sought. But as the elevated line and Bellandur station have been listed, there is no other space for the station to come up," said the BMRCL official. BMRCL is planning to build six Metro stations at Central Silk Board, HSR Layout, Agara, Iblur, Bellandur and Kadubeesanahalli on the Phase 2A package-1 line.

The BMRCL has told the BBMP that it will take up the construction of loops and ramps for road flyover at Central Silk Board junction that runs for 2.84 km along with road widening and other works along reach-5 line of Metro Phase-2. The BMRCL engineering section said the BBMP has not responded to the letter yet.

The planned demolition of flyover has got the goat of residents of Bellandur and surrounding areas. This is due to the lack of planning between among agencies. At least from now, they should check BMRCL plans and take up projects, they said.

15th September: My spotlight is on Taurus - and Taurean people. It seems crystal-clear to me that everyone should do what people born under the sign of the Bull demand. Well, that's the theory. In practice a great deal of persuasion will be needed, and the other eleven signs must be convinced that they should do what they're told!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
What takes place over the next few days is likely to remind you that, far from being alone, you are part of an enormous community of nations, yet you may still feel strangely isolated. Your whole mood will be beset by internal contradictions.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The simplest result of the lunar picture will be a massive promotion at work or acclaim in your community. However, first of all, you may have to learn to let go and create the conditions in which future advances can take place. And while you're doing that, keep close attention on questions of cash.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You have no choice but to take the moral high ground. For a number of reasons, anything less than total saintliness will not be good enough. You may, for example, lose your self-respect if you know you have not done the best by everyone. And that would be a shame!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Security is such a major issue for you, but sometimes you find it difficult to decide just what will provide you with a certain future. If it's money you need, then sort out the business side of things as soon as you can. And if someone makes you extravagant promises, ask around and get a second opinion.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It's easy to float off into the clouds, but you must now keep your feet on the ground. The possibilities for achievement are so great, but the potential for misunderstanding is even greater. This is precisely why you must never jump to conclusions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Physical fitness and health stand at the top of your list of priorities, and you should concentrate on getting into shape. There's no doubt that you'll be busy, but you must pace yourself. After all, if you end up worn out and flat on your back you'll be no use to anybody!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Your creative powers are at a peak, so artistic individuals should press ahead with great confidence. Whatever your motivation, you may put aside routine affairs and do what is right for you alone. Mind you, it won't be long before you're thinking of others again!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There are now indications of a possible move of home or other substantial domestic change. The main priorities are practical, so it's no use flapping around, or being sidetracked by emotional cul-de-sacs. You'd be much better off sticking to what you can do best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
As long as you have all the legal and ethical issues clear in your mind, this is an excellent moment to aim for the top. It goes without saying that professional types could soon be on cloud nine. Remember - whatever opportunity comes your way, it needs to be treated with all due respect!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Please don't imagine that once financial questions are solved all your troubles will be over. However, it's fair to say that a successful investment, or a judicious purchase, will lift your morale. That's the least that you can expect. The best comes soon in the form of a new friendship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
This is such an important moment in your life, but everything depends on where you are on your individual cycle. One way or another, your past efforts will soon be rewarded, even if there is a brief delay first of all. And any cancellations will give you the chance to smarten up your act.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You are being pulled in two directions emotionally, but the key is to recognise that you don't yet fully understand your true desires. Get these sorted out and you'll realise what you must do. In the meantime, no discussion is a waste of time, no idea irrelevant to your situation.

3rd wave may be flatter, need to bring down active cases: Experts

Increased vax drive will help reduce impact, but large gatherings to be avoided

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

A 30-day analysis (September 11-October 13) of Covid-19 projection shows that Karnataka will add 24,869 cases and 228 deaths during the period. While the numbers do not seem to be that high, compared to the peak period, the analysis states that the focus now needs to be on bringing down the active cases to below 10,000 before October-end.

The analysis by Jeevan Raksha shows the number of positive cases on September 11 to be 29,60,131 and it is projected to increase to 29,85,000 by October 13, while deaths could rise from 37,472 to 37,700 during the same period. The state's active cases have dropped significantly. On June 13, the active cases were 1,80,835. By July 13, there was a huge dip to 34,234 cases, while on August 13, there were 22,703 active cases and on September 13, it came down to 16,341 active cases. However, the count should come to below 10,000, the analysis says.

Dr Manohar K N, Consultant-Internal Medicine at Manipal Hospitals, Old Airport Road, says that with the rising curve of vaccination in the country, the third wave is likely to be smaller and flatter than the first wave. "The wave might be so slow and low that its impact may not practically not felt. Cases are likely to remain concentrated in zones of poor seropositivity and low vaccination. When the rise in the number of cases is slow, hospital beds remain available, health infrastructure is not overburdened, so there is little hue and cry. But the government should remain cautious about preventing big congregations and large gatherings."

> Right now, the TPR and CFR show low numbers and even during the e-rounds of districts, we are noticing low numbers, which means the wave has tapered down
>
> Dr Anoop Amarnath, member of state's Critical Care Support Team

Dr Anoop Amarnath, member of the state's Critical Care Support Team (CCST) pointed out that the focus should be on keeping a track on epidemiological masses by keeping down the R-naught number below 1 and lower case positivity and fatality rate, to keep the numbers low. "Right now, the TPR and CFR show low numbers and even during the e-rounds of districts, we are noticing low numbers, which means the wave has tapered down. Next, the genomic study of the new strains and emerging ones needs to be checked to control the infections," he pointed out.

With the third wave predicted to set in during October or November, experts point out that it is important to bring down the active cases. If the active case load is high, then newer addition of cases can still be managed. "Six states in India have more than 10,000 active cases, which include Kerala, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Mizoram, Tamil Nadu. The September month is crucial to bring down active cases, as, in October, many festivals like Dasara, Deepavali will come up. The government should take stringent measures and keep the case load low. The key should be carrying out both containment and clinical management at the optimum. Meanwhile, under-reporting of cases too should be looked into." said Sanjeev Mysore, Convener of Jeevan Raksha.

Test result of Nipah suspect likely today

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

THE Nipah virus test result of a 25-year-old microbiologist who has been isolated at the District Wenlock Hospital in Mangaluru is expected to arrive on Wednesday. The blood, urine and nasal swab samples of the micribiologist working with a Goa-based company that manufactures Nipah and Covid test kits was sent to the National Institute of Virology (NIV) in Pune after he expressed strong suspicion of having contracted the virus.

However, the health authorities maintained that there is nothing to worry as the isolated man is not considered as a 'Nipah virus suspect'. "He does not have any symptoms of the disease and all his vital parameters are stable. He is perfectly alright. We have sent his samples for testing just to make sure that everything is alright," Deputy Commissioner KV Rajendra said on Monday.

He said the man travelled from Goa to his hometown Karwar on a two-wheeler on September 8. During the long journey, he got drenched in rain and had a severe headache and fever. This led him to panic and he Googled to learn the symptoms of Nipah, which caused him severe anxiety. He then approached a hospital in Karwar, which referred him to a private hospital in Udupi. From there, he was shifted to the Mangaluru hospital in an ambulance.

His father has also been isolated and the authorities in Udupi and Karwar have been asked to identify his contacts, isolate them and keep them under watch.

Massive vax drive on Sept 17 to cover 30 lakh people, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday announced that the government has planned a massive vaccination blitzkrieg on September 17, targeting a whopping 30 lakh jabs. This will make it the most ambitious vaccination drive in the state so far.

During a video conference with district deputy commissioners in the evening, officials reeled out statistics showing that Karnataka stands second as far as vaccination is concerned, only behind Uttar Pradesh. In August, Karnataka had vaccinated 1.1 crore people. Bommai told them to ensure that all those aged 18 and above are vaccinated in 10 weeks from now. The target is to inoculate about 15 lakh people every week, he said.

Indicating that the state would need about three crore doses during the period, Bommai said the Union Government has been requested to supply the required doses. On groups that need to be targeted, Bommai said that those below poverty line and the working populace need to be prioritised for vaccines. In urban areas, priority has to be given to those living in slums. The local authorities should launch drives to reach out to underprivileged sections, he advised.

Considering the need for infrastructure facilities to launch such a massive vaccination drive, the CM said private colleges, medical and nursing colleges will be roped in. Special vaccination outreach programmes should be organised in each district, he stressed. Bommai cautioned that proper organisation and planning of logistics is necessary to ensure success of the programme and informed that he will launch the drive from Kalaburagi.

On the drop in Covid numbers over the last few weeks, Bommai said the massive vaccination drive has helped.

Green space on Mysore Lamps land

Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani on Tuesday informed the Council that there is no proposal before the government to build a hospital on Mysore Lamps land in Bengaluru. GOVT TABLES 10 BILLS, PUSHES FOR GROUNDWATER RECHARGE

Delimitation commission proposed; stamp duty on first purchase of apartment to be cut

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE government on Tuesday tabled as many as 10 bills, including The Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage (Amendment) Bill, 2021, in the Assembly to give thrust to ground water recharge through rainwater harvesting and thereby reduce dependency on Cauvery water.

If passed, the Bill mandates that every property owner with sital area of not less than 2,400 sqft and those who propose to construct a building on an area of not less than 1,200 sqft shall provide rainwater harvesting structure in accordance with the regulations and guidelines issued by the Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board.

The move is aimed at mitigating flooding in Bengaluru, reducing the flow into storm water drains and non-point source pollution of surface and ground water, to manage the summer peak demand of water and provide fresh water source to improve quality of supply.

In order to fulfill its budgetary commitment, the government also tabled The Karnataka Stamp (Amendment) Bill, 2021, to reduce stamp duty from 5 per cent to 3 per cent for first-time registration of apartments valued between Rs 35-45 lakh.

To help urban local bodies boost their revenue, the government will bring a second amendment to The Karnataka Municipalities and Certain Other Laws to empower them to levy a fee for granting permission to erect outdoor advertisements within their jurisdiction. The advertisement tax has been subsumed under the GST.

The Karnataka Local Fund Authorities Fiscal Responsibility (Amendment) Bill, 2021, is to make rural local bodies under the RDPR Department and those under the Urban Development Department as the competent authority, instead of the state Accounts Department, to oversee the compliance of the Act and to notify a mechanism for submitting periodical review reports.

With several writ petitions being filed before the Karnataka High Court challenging the delimitation notification and reservation notification of the State Election Commission, the government has proposed an amendment to the Karnataka Gram Swaraj and Panchayat Raj Act, 1993. The objective is to constitute a commission with powers of delimitation, ensure participation of experts in the process and calling for public objections before making recommendations to the government.

The Karnataka Agricultural Pests and Diseases Amendment Bill, if passed, will enable enhancement of fine for contravention of Sections 3,7,9 and 20 beside empowering district officers. To reduce the financial burden, The Karnataka Khadi and Village Industries Act, 1956 (Karnataka Act 7 of 1957) will be amended so that the number of non-officials members of the Khadi Board is reduced to 12 — three from each revenue region — instead of one person from each district. It will help to carry out efficient and subject-based discussions in the meetings, the government feels.

The Karnataka Prison Development Board Bill, to set up a board for strengthening prisons, correctional intervention, skill improvement, welfare of prisoners and staff by expanding prison industries was also tabled. The Identification of Prisoners (Karnataka Amendment) Bill, 2021, aims at empowering Superintendents/Deputy Commissioners of Police, in addition to the judicial magistrate first class, to order for collection of blood, DNA and voice samples, and iris scan, to avoid procedural delays besides reducing the workload on the judiciary.

The government also felt it necessary to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Central Act 2 of 1974) for recording evidence of witnesses by audio/video/electronic means, in the presence of the advocate of the accused.

The Bills were tabled by Law Minister J C Madhuswamy. Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri, who put them to vote in the House for the consent of the members, sought active debate in the ongoing session.

Govt committed to resolving issue of 2011 batch KAS probationers, says minister

The government on Tuesday said that it is committed to resolving the issue of recruitment of 362 candidates selected as gazetted probationers in 2011 by the Karnataka Public Service Commission. Following a report by the CoD in 2014 on the alleged corruption and malpractices in the recruitment process, the government had annulled the selection. But the Karnataka Administrative Tribunal (KAT) had quashed the government order, fuelling the hopes of the candidates. Reacting to Mudigere BJP MLA M P Kumaraswamy in a calling attention motion, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy said that he had already held three meetings to resolve the issue.

CM promises 3L LED streetlights by Dec-end

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday assured the Legislative Assembly that three lakh LED streetlights will come up in Bengaluru by December-end, failing which, action will be taken against the contractor. He also directed the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike to replace malfunctioning streetlights.

"The contractor will install the streetlights in five phases. I have directed them to install at least three lakh streetlights by December-end. Or else we can cancel their order," he said, adding that there is a clause in the agreement for the government to levy Rs 1 lakh penalty per week if the contractor does not follow.

Bommai's reply came after legislators, cutting across party lines, expressed concern over dark roads.

Dasarahalli JDS MLA R Manjunath pointed out that a private firm was entrusted with installing 4.85 lakh streetlights in BBMP limits, under a private-public partnership in 2019. It's been nearly two-and-half years, but work has not started, he said.

"The Peenya industrial area falls in my constituency. After 6.30 pm, workers from industries take roads which do not have streetlights. Many of them fall as these roads are also dug up in some stretches," Manjunath said.

Senior Congress MLA Ramalinga Reddy said this is the situation not just in one constituency, but in all the 28 in the city. "No grants have been given to repair existing streetlights as officials said a global tender has been called to install LED lights. We were told they will get no grants till then," he said.

BJP MLA Ravi Subramanya said they feel so helpless as people have been asking for streetlights for more than one year. Another BJP MLA, Aravind Limbavali, said wherever there are roads, the BESCOM or BWSSB would have dug them up, and without streetlights, these pose a threat to people.

₹25K cr being spent on infra in cities: Minister

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

WHILE Bengaluru continues to be the most favoured urban destination in Karnataka, the government is improving infrastructure in other urban centres like Belagavi, Davanagere, Hubballi-Dharwad, Mangaluru, Shivamogga and Tumakuru.

Responding to a question on Smart Cities in the Council on Tuesday, Urban Development Minister Byrati Basavaraj explained that a total of 5,200 important civic works related to water supply, underground drainage, storm water drains, development of greenery under parks and lung spaces, urban transport had been taken up in these cities. He also gave out details about the various civic works under progress.

The minister said that about Rs 25,000 crore is being spent under different heads including for works being taken up in Bengaluru.

Under the Amrit scheme, about Rs 2,000 crore has been received since 2019, the 14th Finance Commission had provided about Rs 1,250 crore over two years and other allocations from different heads, totalling another Rs 2,000 crore was received in this period. The KUIFDC, under the Smart City Abhiyan, would give another Rs 2,000 crore over the same period, he said.

Listing out the different expenditure heads under the Smart City project for Bengaluru, he said about Rs 1,961 crore has been spent on civic projects, while close to Rs 1,000 crore was spent on the Cauvery water project including UGD connectivity. For Namma Metro, Rs 3,537 crore was allotted and Rs 145 crore is available for the suburban rail network, he said.

Not enough treated water to fill lakes

Out of the select 44 lakes, 26 are getting treated water. To fill lakes in Kolar and Chikkaballapur, we need 410 MLD of treated sewage water, but are able to get only 290 MLD to 330 MLD

J C Madhuswamy, Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE authorities are not able get 410 million litres per day (MLD) of treated sewage water in Bengaluru required to replenish lakes in Kolar and Chikkaballapur, Minor Irrigation Minister J C Madhuswamy told the Assembly, adding that they are able to treat just 330 MLD sewage water.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai added that he will convene a meeting of BWSSB officials, and promised to do justice to the people of the two districts.

Replying to Chikkaballapur's Sidlaghatta MLA V Muniyappa, who raised the issue of non-filling of lakes in his home district, Madhuswamy said at present, out of the select 44 lakes, 26 are getting treated water. "To fill lakes in Kolar and Chikkaballapur, we need 410 MLD of treated sewage water, but are able to get only 290 MLD to 330 MLD."

When a few MLAs suggested mixing treated sewage water with rain water, Madhuswamy said as per the National Green Tribunal norms, treated sewage water is not potable, and cannot be mixed with rain water. He also noted that while sewage water in Bengaluru was getting wasted, they are not able to get the required quantity.

However, former Speaker and senior Congress MLA from Srinivasapura, K R Ramesh Kumar, was not satisfied with the minister's reply. "On what basis are they claiming that there isn't sufficient sewage water. This is because the BWSSB is not showing interest. The detailed project report was done in consultation with the BWSSB and the IISc. Why did they not estimate that Bengaluru cannot get 410 MLD of sewage water?" he said.

Muniyappa, too, agreed with Kumar, saying that there must be some irregularities in this which needs to be probed.

Madhuswamy assured them that he will conduct a meeting with BWSSB officials and find out if the quantity of sewage water can be increased.

Decision on MySugar after session

BENGALURU: Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani said the Chief Minister will soon take a decision on whether the Mandya Sugar Factory (MySugar) should be leased out to private companies. He was replying after a discussion on the issue raised by JDS MLC K T Shrikantegowda on Tuesday. The members suggested that the government constitute an expert committee to conduct a scientific study of the problems plaguing the factory and come up with solutions to revive it.

Leader of the Opposition SR Patil said Nirani himself is the owner of sugar factories and is an expert on the matter. "You should use your experience and suggest ideas to the government to revive the factory. People want it to be government-run and we have to address the issue accordingly," Patil said. ENS

Govt promises strict action in Co-op bank case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

STRESSING that there was no question of protecting anyone involved in irregularities in the Sri Guru Raghavendra Cooperative Bank in Bengaluru, Cooperation Minister S T Somashekar on Tuesday informed the Legislative Council that stern action will be taken against the guilty.

Responding to Congress MLC U B Venkatesh's demand for a CBI probe and attachment of properties of those involved in large-scale irregularities, the minister said the High Court and the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) are directly monitoring the developments, and the government will take all measures to protect depositors' interests.

The minister said cases have been registered against those involved in it, a re-audit of the accounts is being done and measures are being taken to refund the depositors. Those who had audited the bank accounts have been blacklisted and the CID is investigating it. "We have taken it seriously as many poor people have invested money," he added.

Leader of Opposition in the Council S R Patil pointed out that the bank's board of directors have taken loans violating RBI guidelines.

Money was given without even loan applications and the loss was to the tune of Rs 2,000 crore, he said.

Norms should be same for all religious structures: Ashoka

"THEY should follow the same guidelines for all places of worship, including temples, churches and masjids. The court kept asking about the number of illegal structures demolished and that might have put pressure on the officials," Ashoka said.

The government cannot appeal before the Supreme Court as it is the final order. "We can relocate temples that were constructed after 2009. We will take a decision on that soon," he said.

Chief Secretary P Ravikumar directed deputy commissioners to file an affidavit before the High Court on their action plan on illegal religious structures. The Supreme Court has asked the Karnataka High Court to monitor the demolition of illegal structures. "DCs should identify these structures on government properties, tell the High Court what is their action plan, how many are demolished and what the status is, " he added.

In Mysuru, Deputy Commissioner Dr Bagadi Gautham said that the demolition of illegal religious structures will be stopped temporarily and the district administration will wait for government orders.

On the demolition of Huchchagani Mahadevappa temple in Nanjangud, he said, "The government has sought a report from us."

Recently, the Hindu Jagaran Vedike had announced that it will launch a protest against Mysuru district administration officials on September 16.

Senior JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy said, "In the name of Supreme Court order, Mysuru administration is gearing up to demolish 92 temples. BJP is behind this. If the government decides, it can stop demolitions. Let the government file an affidavit before the Supreme Court and call an all-party meeting."

In 2009, the Supreme Court had ordered the demolition or relocation of illegal religious structures in public places. In 2019, the Karnataka High Court took up a suo motu petition to supervise the state government's implementation of the apex court order. Last year, the High Court had rapped the state government for not implementing the Supreme Court's order.

Two parked vehicles, furniture and other materials were completely gutted. Fire and Emergency personnel rushed to the spot and doused the blaze within half an hour, averting a major mishap.

Sathya Prakash, one of the injured guests, said he was watching TV when the fire broke out and he alerted the hotel staff. He, along with some others, managed to escape by jumping from the first floor, police said.

A video grab of the incident captured from a mobile phone camera

A senior police officer from Halasuru police station said the incident occurred around 10.45 pm. The hotel is adjacent to a petrol pump and only one among its 190 rooms was booked.

The hotel owner had come from Mysuru and had parked his car on the premises. The fire was first spotted near the vehicle from where it reportedly spread. However, forensic experts are yet to get at what exactly caused the fire.

Validity of Land Acquisition Act upheld

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN THE HC

THE Karnataka High Court upheld the constitutional validity of the Karnataka Amendment Act to the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013.

Quashing the interim order dated April 19, 2017, passed by single judge in a batch of petitions, the division bench of Justices Alok Aradhe and Hemant Chandangoudar said the order not sustainable under law. The single judge should not have dealt with the issue of constitutionality of provision of law by an interim order, the court added, while allowing a batch of writ appeals filed against the order.

Holding that amendments brought to the Resettlement Act in 2019 by the state are neither arbitrary nor violative of Article 21, the court held that provisions of Karnataka Industrial Area Development Board Act, 1966, Act are not implied on coming to force of the 2013 Act.

"The 1966 Act is a special law, whereas, the 2013 Act, which deals with acquisition of the land is a general law and the assent granted by the President in 1966 to 1966 Act did not lapse on coming into force of 2013 Act," the court added.

Madras HC quashes Centre's notification on speed limit

Centre's order increasing speed from 100kmph to 120kmph on hold

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Tuesday quashed a 2018 notification, issued by the Union government, increasing the speed limit of motor vehicles to 120 km/hr on expressways, 100 km/hr on four-lane highways, and 70 km/hr on roads within municipal limits. A division bench of Justices N Kirubakaran (since retired) and TV Thamilselvi passed the order asserting that over-speeding was the primary cause for many fatal road accidents.

Refusing to accept the stand taken by the Union government that the speed limit was fixed by an expert committee considering the improvement in infrastructure and better engine technology of vehicles, the court said, "When over-speeding is a major cause for road accidents, it is not known as to how the improvement in road infrastructure and engine technology would reduce accidents."

The bench pointed out that data released by the Union Ministry of Road Transport and Highways showed that over-speeding was the major cause of road accidents year after year. While it accounted to 66.7 per cent of the accidents in 2017, it was 55.73 per cent in 2018, and 64.4 per cent in 2019. In fact, better engine technology would always be a reason for uncontrolled speed and thereby, cause more accidents, the court added.

The judges directed the Tamil Nadu government, too, to come up with a notification fixing speed limits as per a previous notification dated August 5, 2014, which prescribed the maximum speed limit on highways at 80 km/hr.

The court passed the orders while increasing the compensation awarded to a dentist, who sustained 90 per cent disability in a road accident, and her two children. The court enhanced ₹18.43 lakh awarded by a tribunal to ₹1.49 crore.

Students protesting against NEP caned near Soudha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AROUND 300 students protesting against the National Education Policy-2020 (NEP-2020) were lathicharged by the police near KR Circle on Tuesday morning as they tried to march towards Vidhana Soudha, where prohibitory orders under Section 144 have been clamped because of the ongoing legislature session.

Imran Khan, National Secretary, Campus Front of India (CFI) – which organised the protest, said many students were injured and several were hospitalised. But the police maintained that only two were hurt. All the protesters were taken into preventive custody and later released.

Students were demanding that NEP-2020, which has been implemented in Karnataka first, be taken up for discussion at the legislature session. They also said that the policy should be withdrawn.

"NEP-2020 has not yet been discussed either in the Assembly or Council. Only workshops have been conducted. The policy is unscientific. It will not just centralise education, but also lay emphasis on privatisation and commercialisation, besides saffronisation," alleged CFI General Secretary Anees Kumbra.

CFI had sent its objections to NEP in 2019 to the Ministry of Human Resource Development over complications in the draft policy, but none of the opinions of organisations or education experts were considered, Kumbra said.

Kumbra, CFI Secretary Sarfaraz Gangavathi and committee member Murshida Mangalore were among those taken into custody. Video clips of the lathicharge went viral on various social media platforms and news channels.

A senior police officer said the protest affected traffic around Mysuru Bank Circle and Sheshadri Road as students tried to block roads before marching towards Vidhana Soudha. "The lathicharge was ordered only when the situation went out of control. The protesters were taken into preventive custody," he added.

The All-India Democratic Students Organisation and other associate organisations condemned the incident. Leader of Opposition Siddaramaih tweeted about "police brutality" against the students.

E-permit will be must for disposal of effluents

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) will soon launch an e-permit portal to keep an eye on dumping of industrial effluents and ensuring their proper disposal. The board is taking this step due to increasing incidents of effluents being dumped into water bodies -- especially in the Vrushabhavathi Valley and in lakes on the outskirts of Bengaluru.

Now, it will be mandatory for every industry to seek permission from the Board before taking out every load of effluent and also give details of where it is being taken for treatment. The need for this increased after they have found anomalies in the manual permissions and received complaints of trucks throwing waste into water bodies from citizens.

"Every industry will have to seek permission online for taking out every load of effluent. The industry will have to give details of the quantity and quality and to which treatment plant the effluents are being taken, the kind of treatment and the after utilisation of the products. Each vehicle must also be GPS tagged," a KSPCB official seeking anonymity told The New Indian Express.

There are around 10,000 industries in the state, which are being brought under this ambit, 40 per cent of which are in Bengaluru alone. This exercise will also let the Board know the exact daily details of the effluents generated from industries.

Southern states top list in pending agri loans

KUMAR VIKRAM @New Delhi

ANDHRA Pradesh, Telangana, Karnataka amd Kerala lead the list of states where average amount of outstanding loan per agricultural household is high. While the national average of loan per agricultural household is ₹74,121, the corresponding number in Andhra Pradesh and Kerala is ₹2.45 lakh and ₹2.42 lakh.

An NSS report on 'Situation Assessment of Agricultural Households and Land and Livestock Holdings of Households in Rural India, 2019' showed that agricultural households in southern states have large amount of outstanding debt, compared with other big states. Average debt in Telangana and Karnataka is ₹1.52 lakh and ₹1.26 lakh, which is far more than the national average.

On the other hand, average debt per agricultural households in states like Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, West Bengal and Bihar is ₹51,107, ₹74,420, ₹82,085, ₹26,452 and ₹23,534, respectively. A look at the data discloses that southern states also have larger share of farmers in debt. For instance, percentage of indebted agricultural households in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana is 93.2 and 91.7, as against the national average of 50.2%. Tamil Nadu, Karnataka and Kerala also have higher number of indebted farmers — 65.1%, 67.6% and 69.9%.

Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh have 41.9% and 48.4% of indebted farmers which is below the national average.

The report released by the ministry of statistics last week shows institutional sources alone could not meet the credit requirements of the farmers and a large number of households are still dependent on non-institutional sources for loans. These non-institutional sources include professional money lenders, landlords or agricultural money lenders, relatives and friends and chit-fund market commission agents.

On the source of loans, the NSS report said nearly 69.6% of outstanding loans were taken from institutional sources like banks, cooperative societies and government agencies, while remaining 30.4% were from non-institutional sources. The report also discloses that a majority of farmers in the country have less than one hectare of land.

STATES	Average amount of outstanding loan (₹)	% of indebted agricultural households
Andhra	2,45,554	93.2
Kerala	2,42,482	69.9
Telangana	1,52,113	91.7

Bihar	23,534	39.7
West Bengal	26,452	50.8

The NSS report said tht nearly 69.6% of outstanding loans were taken from institutional sources like banks, cooperative societies and government agencies, while remaining 30.4% were from non-institutional sources.

ANOTHER SHOT AT NEET WORKAROUND IN TAMIL NADU

NEET has yet again occupied the centre stage in Tamil Nadu, with two youngsters dying by suicide within days of this year's test on September 12. At least 16 youngsters have ended their lives over the medical entrance test that the state has opposed since its inception. The previous AIADMK government had challenged the NEET legally, passed a Bill against it (to which the President did not assent) and finally introduced a 7.5% quota for government school students in medical education to mitigate the effects of the urban, wealthy bias of the test. The DMK made removal of NEET from TN one of its poll promises, yet did not reveal its strategy before it was elected. This left the party open to criticism of cynically making an empty promise purely to score political points. On Monday, the party introduced a Bill in the Assembly against the test, similar to one passed by the previous government, yet citing the findings of its A K Rajan committee that described the test as favouring privileged students with access to private coaching. Presumably, it hopes the addition of data will strengthen its case. More interestingly, on Tuesday, a party MLA moved the Madras High Court, arguing that the subject of education should be moved out of the Concurrent list to the State list, on the ground that this was the intention of the Constituent Assembly. The 42nd amendment, which moved the subject to the Concurrent list, is violative of the basic structure of federalism, is the argument put forth in the petition. This could be viewed as another strategy of the DMK to make NEET inapplicable in the state. How far it will be successful in its goal remains to be seen.

Yet, there is a danger in TN of viewing the issue of NEET in isolation. Indeed, data shows the test does favour the urban and monied, but TN also needs to invest in strengthening its school education system, especially in addressing the learning loss suffered during the pandemic. It also needs to invest in healthcare systems itself, ensuring that vacancies are filled and staff well compensated. It could begin by prioritising payment of incentives and solatium promised to medical staff in the course of the pandemic.

WHEN BHUBANESWAR WENT DOWN UNDER

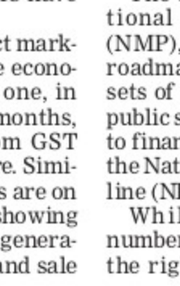
A record rainfall has put Odisha capital Bhubaneswar in the same space where Delhi found itself a few days ago. Residential spaces, commercial hubs, heritage zones, major road stretches and even the railway station were not spared after 200 mm of rainfall, induced by a deep depression, battered the temple city. The weather system put to end a long dry spell but left much of the capital in the throes of despair and chaos. For a city that topped the Smart City Challenge barely six years ago, its vaunted urban planning and design seem to have gone down the drain.

One of the key reasons Bhubaneswar was chosen as the site of Odisha's new capital over 70 years ago was its geographical advantage—its topography and an excellent drainage system with a west-to-east slope and host of natural channels. But in the last 10 years, everything seems to have been choked. In 2008, the regional planning body Bhubaneswar Development Authority's Building Regulations and the Comprehensive Development Plan created a new zoning classification 'Environmentally Sensitive Zone'. Other than restricting construction, neither the government nor the BDA had any conservation plans for these large swathes of mostly private land that eventually gave way to illegal structures and unplanned developments, further choking the very places perceived as environmentally fragile. In 2018, the building norms were revised to allow regulated development in these zones, providing an opportunity to develop public utilities. The damage was done by then. Once enlisted in the Smart City programme, urban development took a concretised route leaving even the central business district in a shambles. Interestingly, the Odisha Municipal Corporation Act, 2003, provided for a dedicated chapter on urban environmental management that stressed vulnerability and risk assessment but no lessons were learnt.

Millions of rupees have been spent, yet the city does not have a drainage master plan despite the flooding trouble it faces every year. Blaming climate change will not help. Bhubaneswar deserves a better future and the Odisha government must make course corrections before it is too late.

While the macroeconomic numbers continue to recover, it is the right time to provide a big push to measures that would generate demand and sustain the growth momentum of the economy

WITH ECONOMY REVIVING, STEP UP CAPITAL SPENDING



CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General, CII

SOUMYADIP SINHA

With the second wave of the pandemic on the retreat and the consequent easing of supply-side restrictions, there are visible signs of the growth momentum returning to the economy. This is borne out from the latest GDP print, which shows that the economy has notched a 20.1% expansion during Q1 2021–22. Although powered by a low base, the GDP number is remarkably robust and demonstrates that the economy is slowly but surely coming back to the pre-pandemic level.

The disaggregation of GDP numbers indicates that recovery, though broad-based, is focused on certain sectors. While manufacturing has recorded an impressive 49.6% growth, some of the employment-intensive sectors such as construction and trade, hotels, transport, and communications have also performed well. On the flip side, the performance of the financial, real estate and professional services as well as public administration, defence and other sectors have been disappointing.

There are other distinct markers that indicate that the economy is on the mend. For one, in nine out of the last 10 months, revenue collections from GST have crossed ₹1 lakh crore. Similarly, Q1 corporate profits are on an upswing. Exports are showing resurgence while power generation, steel consumption and sale of commercial vehicles, among others, are showing an upward momentum. While a third wave could pose another challenge, it is expected that the country is sufficiently geared up to ensure that the template of an ascending economy remains in place. The government also needs to be complimented for taking timely measures under the Atmanirbhar Bharat package to boost the economy. The loan guarantee scheme for stressed sectors such as healthcare, travel and tourism, and agriculture has done much to help the sectors restart business and get the economy back on the revival trajectory. The PLI Scheme of the government is also evincing considerable interest. Similarly, the repeal of retrospective taxation would cement India's position as a reliable investment destination. And the Factoring Regulation (Amendment) Bill would help MSMEs in meeting their working capital requirements.

The recently announced National Monetisation Pipeline (NMP), which would provide a roadmap for monetising the assets of the government and the public sector, would go a long way to finance mega projects such as the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) in coming times.

While the macroeconomic numbers continue to recover, it is the right time to provide a big push to measures that would generate demand and sustain the growth momentum of the economy. And the immediate source of demand generation, at this juncture, is to step up capital expenditure. The government should retain its focus on capital spending on infrastructure projects that, through a multiplier effect, would rekindle the investment cycle.

However, despite the need to revive aggregate demand by capital spending, government expenditure continues to be on a tight leash owing to fiscal deficit concerns. Capital expenditure, for instance, is at 23.2% of the BE during April–July 2021 as against 27.1% last year. Total expenditure during the four months of the year is at 28.8% of the BE even as revenue receipts jumped by 37.4% during the period. When taken together with the high tax on fuel, this could depress demand. It is hoped that the government would frontload the public expenditure on infrastructure development that is already committed in the Budget. The fiscal deficit can be tapered in a phased manner to achieve the target of 6.8% set for this year.

> The Trade Receivables Discounting System (TReDS) should be actively used for settling the delayed payments to MSMEs.... Faster IBC resolution is yet another powerful tool to unlock liquidity for which the infrastructure and capacity of NCLT Benches should be strengthened

Simultaneously, the private sector should be incentivised to join the government's drive on infrastructure investment to enhance demand. This would require that some of the issues faced by the private sector be addressed. This includes implementing the Kelkar Committee recommendations on public-private partnerships such as ensuring sanctity of contracts and faster resolution of long-pending disputes and litigations, among others. The government could consider setting up many more commercial Dispute Resolution Courts specialising in infrastructure sector-related disputes.

The government should also take steps to unlock private capital by addressing issues relating to delayed payments. The most direct way that the government can put money into the economy and revive demand is through payment of its pending bills to service providers. The government should release all its dues, whether outstanding payments or tax refunds to industry, immediately. Further, all outstanding payments should also be released by the state governments and other service providers. A cell could be created within the MoF to monitor timely clearance of dues.

The Trade Receivables Discounting System (TReDS) should be actively used for settling the delayed payments to MSMEs. In fact, the passing of the Factoring Amendment Bill has strengthened the TReDS platform and made it more accessible for MSMEs that are looking for timely payments against their receivables. Faster IBC resolution is yet another powerful tool to unlock liquidity for which the infrastructure and capacity of NCLT Benches should be strengthened. The government has taken many steps to support the MSMEs including the ECLGS. Further measures such as expediting the Fund of Funds scheme for equity support and revival of Credit Linked Capital Subsidy Scheme for technology upgradation should be considered.

Finally, the accelerated pace of vaccination should continue to prevent the third wave and help retain the steadfast focus on the economy. It is at a crucial juncture today. It needs the right policy interventions from the government to bring the investment cycle back on track and lead the economy to the path of growth. Some work on this has happened. But there is more to be done.

KASHMIR: A FORGOTTEN HISTORY – IV

SHONALEEKA KAUL

Associate Professor, Centre for Historical Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University

In this series, we attempt to redress the glaring academic and political neglect of the longue durée historical identity of Kashmir. We do so by delving into essential aspects of 2,000 years of her formative history, which show that early Kashmir was never isolated or insular, as she is made out to be, but open, plural and cosmopolitan; and she was overwhelmingly Indic in her genesis and composition rather than 'unique'.

Indeed Kashmir is as unique as every other region of India. But the assumption that this uniqueness was based on a seclusion from the Indic mainstream is simply unhistorical. So in particular this series presents the abundant evidence of the connected histories of Kashmir and the rest of India, which the world has conveniently forgotten.

In the previous three parts, we surveyed Kashmir's early archaeology, historical geography, linguistics, writing systems and political foundations, all of which demonstrated her participation in seminal Indic material, cultural and political formations. We will continue to see more evidence of the same but today let us turn to the remarkable historical process that seems to have underlaid this intense connectivity between Kashmir and the rest of India. This is a process crucial in history yet virtually ignored by scholars of Kashmir, namely, migration.

Of course we often hear of the influx of groups from West and Central Asia as late as the 14th–18th centuries, bringing Islam to the Valley and shaping what is understood as Kashmiri popular culture today. What we never hear of is the fact that long before this, people from different corners of India travelled to and settled in Kashmir over some two millennia.

We saw last time how a number of kings and queens of Kashmir were drawn from other parts of India, as near as Punjab on the one hand and as far as Assam, Andhra and Tamil Nadu, on the other. In similar fashion, ministers at Srinagar could hail from Kangra, Mathura, Malwa and even Karnataka. They no doubt brought with them their own customs and traditions.

However, while regional courts attracting men from far and wide may not be exceptional, in Kashmir we seem to be looking at a society-wide phenomenon. For, in the 12th century Rajatarangini, the 'first' history of Kashmir, we hear of not only courtiers but commoners, in fact a mixed bag of individuals and groups migrating to Kashmir in pursuit of their vocation. Thus we find students from Gauda (Bengal), traders and baniyas from Rauhitaka and Takka (Haryana and Punjab), magicians from Dravidadesha (South India), graziers from Khasha (Nepal), artisans and horse dealers from the Gangetic plains, and prostitutes "from different regions".

Kings Jayapida, Lalitaditya, Avantivarman and Harsha (6th–11th centuries) in particular are said to have gathered from many lands various learned men. And of course there are common references to brahmanas and bhikkhus from Madhyadesha (Gangetic plains), as also from Gandhara in one instance, from Dravidadesha, and from Saurashtra and Lata (Gujarat), being settled in numbers by several kings in the Valley or flocking to it on their own.

> In the 12th century Rajatarangini, we hear of not only courtiers but commoners migrating to Kashmir in pursuit of their vocation, such as students from Gauda (Bengal) and magicians from Dravidadesha (South India) ... 12th–15th century inscriptions from Srirangam, Chidambaram, Tiruvottiyur (TN) and Kalahasti (Andhra) speak of resident, landed persons holding high official posts there as being originally natives of Kashmiradesha

On view then are not only state but non-state actors in Kashmir's remarkable prehistory of immigration, and a host of pursuits—education, commerce, pilgrimage, art, employment—that brought them there from other parts of the subcontinent. Not only does this attest to an open and dynamic society, the demographic implications of this little-noted phenomenon may also be fundamental. Who is the Kashmiri ethnically becomes a moot question now and far removed from the exclusionist and separate status that has been claimed in modern times.

What's more, as if in historical corollary, we see Kashmiris moving to other parts of India as well, though the exact scale remains to be determined. This included, again, kings and ministers who turned India-ward on abdication or retirement to live in cities like Banaras and Prayag. And Kashmiri generals on the one hand, and scholars and litterateurs on the other, who took employment in courts as far south as the Deccan and as far east as Mithila (Bihar). One need only recall the renowned Sanskrit poet Bilhana (11th century) in the service of the Chalukyan King Vikramaditya VI at Kalyan (Karnataka) or Mahapandita Shakyashribhadra (13th century) who headed the universities at Vikramashila and Odantapuri (Bihar). The latter was known as Kache Panchen ('Kashmiri Pandit') in Tibet where also he taught Buddhism.

Further, 12th–15th century inscriptions from Srirangam, Chidambaram, Tiruvottiyur (Tamil Nadu) and Kalahasti (Andhra), among other places, fascinatingly speak of resident, landed persons holding high official posts (rayan) there as being originally natives of Kashmiradesha! Beyond individuals, it is also popularly believed that Saraswat Brahmanas migrated from Kashmir to other parts of India, especially the Konkan coast.

Similarly, we hear of Kashmiri merchants plying their trade at Bhrigukaccha, the famous ancient port on the Gujarat coast, while Kashmiri pilgrims frequented the holy site of Gaya (Bihar) for obsequies in such numbers that, the Rajatarangini tells us, a Kashmiri minister in the 9th century sought tax exemption for them from the local ruler there!

This episode perhaps aptly symbolises early Kashmiri identity, which seemed to consist in a distinct regional self-awareness in the midst of an overarching subscription to all-India beliefs and practices. Indeed, as all the evidence in this series suggests, for the first two thousand years or more of their history, Kashmiris never seemed to see a conflict between their local and pan-Indic affiliations and wore both with ease and pride.

Generational shift

Daniil Medvedev ended Novak Djokovic's calendar Grand Slam dream by winning the US Open. Medvedev's victory means that Roger Federer, Rafael Nadal and Novak Djokovic are tied at the top with 20 Major titles each. There is no better way than this for the three 'gladiators' to finish their respective careers. The year 2022 is likely to bring about a generational shift in men's tennis.

To safeguard public interest

The editorial on the so-called retro tax (Sep 8) fails to appreciate the justice behind the law. It was brought after a lot of discussion by a statesman finance minister who later went on to become President. All of us living in India have to pay tax on capital gains when we sell assets located here. Just because some multinationals used fancy forms to transfer assets situated in our country, they cannot avoid payment of tax. Bilateral treaties cannot limit the sovereign right of Parliament to enact laws. Such a law has now been repealed without any discussion in the House. The present rules under the new law have been drafted by the I-T department to safeguard public interest.

Bengal, Jharkhand and UP among states falling behind in vaccination

National tally reaches 75 crore, Himachal only state to cover 100% with at least one dose

Beneficiaries receive their shots at a vaccination programme at Tej Bahadur Sapru Hospital in Prayagraj on Tuesday | PTI

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

INDIA on Monday achieved a remarkable feat of administering 75 crore Covid-19 jabs. States like West Bengal, Jharkhand and Uttar Pradesh have emerged as the worst performers in the exercise so far.

Until Monday morning, West Bengal, with only 46.6% of its population covered with at least one dose of the vaccine, was at the bottom of the chart of states, followed closely by Jharkhand, where only 47.8% of the total adult population received the shots.

The country's most populous state, Uttar Pradesh hardly fares better, with less than 49% of the population having received the shots yet, which are being touted as keys to post-pandemic normal life. The country's second most populous state, Bihar was only a tad better with a little over 50% of the 18-plus population covered with vaccination yet.

In Himachal Pradesh, 100% of the population has received at least one dose while in Uttarakhand this figure is 87%. In Kerala, where Covid-19 cases have begun to show some decline after a huge surge for over two months, a little over 83% of the population has been covered with at least one dose.

A health ministry official said while small states were expected to do better, the Centre was constantly guiding larger states to do better. "We have been asking the states to especially prioritise the 45-plus population for full inoculation and also urging the younger population to come forward for the shots in districts where coverage is better," he said.

The official added that states had been asked to prepare district-level plans to raise the vaccination rate and special focus was to be given in districts with over 10% test positivity rate or those reporting more than 100 daily cases.

In the country as a whole, nearly 61% of the population has now been covered with at least one dose but the percentage of population which is fully vaccinated is just over 20%. The numbers achieved yet, however, make the government's target of vaccinating all 94 crore adult population till December look distant.

In September, average daily vaccination so far has been nearly 72 lakh, way ahead of the July average of 43 lakh.

They were tasked to conduct reconnaissance of suitable locations in Delhi and Uttar Pradesh for placing Improvised Explosive Devices (IES), said officials on Tuesday.

Delhi Police said that the group was planning blasts in Delhi, UP Maharashtra and other states during the festive season. Election in UP was also their likely target. Centre, states urge SC to hear reservation in promotion petitions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE Centre and various state governments have urged the Supreme Court to urgently hear pleas pertaining to reservation in promotions as several appointments have been stalled due to the ambiguities in the norms for applying reservation in promotions.

On Tuesday, a total of 133 petitions from various states were listed before a bench of Justices L Nageswara Rao, Sanjiv Khanna and BR Gavai. The Attorney General of India, KK Vengupal told the court that several appointments in government posts have been stalled due to unsettled issues relating to reservation in promotions.

In 2018, a five-judge bench answered the reference holding the 2006 judgment in the M Nagaraj vs Union of India case to be wrong to the extent it had stated that quantifiable data showing backwardness of SC/STs was necessary for giving them reservation in promotions. With this clarification, the bench had turned down the plea to refer the Nagaraj decision to a seven-judge bench. During Tuesday's hearing, the bench said it will not reopen the issues settled in previous cases.

Senior advocate Gopal Sankaranarayanan, appearing for one of the petitioners, submitted that the directions enumerated in the Nagaraj judgment had not been implemented by all state governments. Senior advocate Indira Jaising told the bench there exists several 'ambiguities' in the Nagaraj ruling because no guidelines had been framed by the Centre pursuant to the judgment.

The AG said the ruling in the Nagaraj case requires interpretation as the judgment had left a lot of ambiguities when it comes to reservations in promotions. "The government of India's problem is, there are three HC orders passed which say that promotions can continue to be made, while one high court has issued status quo orders on promotions. This opens up the government for contempt. The issue is whether the promotions for regular appointments can be continued," he said.

'No need to review life term law'

The Supreme Court has said sentence of life imprisonment means rigorous imprisonment and not simple imprisonment. A two-judge bench said there was no need to re-examine the existing law.

'Hindi friend of all languages'

New Delhi: One of the reasons India came out of the Covid-19 crisis with "minimum damage" is PM Narendra Modi's speeches in Hindi, which took the message to the common man, Home Minister Amit Shah said on Tuesday. Addressing an event on Hindi Diwas, Shah said Hindi is a friend (sakhi) of all Indian regional languages and not a competitor. "Hindi must be promoted in co-existence with other regional languages," Shah said. He The Home minister also called for commemoration of regional languages and suggested that just like September 14 is an occasion to reassess and review efforts to promote Hindi every year, a similar and simultaneous exercise should be undertaken to promote all local languages.

In Delhi to meet leaders, Himachal CM rules out change of guard talk

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

HIMACHAL Pradesh Chief Minister Jairam Thakur on Tuesday sought to put to rest speculation about change of guard in Shimla on the lines of Gujarat by stating that he has come to the national capital to discuss organisational matters with the party leadership. He also stated that his earlier visit to New Delhi was to invite President Ram Nath Kovind to grace the special session of the Assembly in Shimla on the occasion of the 50th year of statehood of Himachal Pradesh.

Thakur stated his visit to New Delhi had been scheduled earlier to discuss organisational matters with the party leadership. "In my last visit to the national capital, I had a number of meetings with the Union ministers for civil aviation, health, finance in the context of the important projects in Himachal Pradesh," Thakur said.

Himachal Pradesh, incidentally, is headed for Assembly elections in December next year along with Gujarat. Thakur's immediate challenge is to ensure BJP's victory in the by-elections in the state. Along with the Mandi Lok Sabha seat, three Assembly bypolls are due in the state.

CONG LISTS ISSUES FOR AGITATION

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

CONSISTENT agitation against the BJP government, connecting with people at grassroots and tracking feedback from the ground — these will be part of the Congress's public outreach plan with an eye on the 2024 elections.

The committee on agitation under Digvijaya Singh with Priyanka Gandhi Vadra as a member at its first meeting discussed issues to create an atmosphere against the Modi government. During the meeting, Priyanka shared inputs related to Uttar Pradesh based on her visits to several areas. She was of the view that besides national issues, the party should also focus on state-specific matters concerning people.

There were also demands that Rahul Gandhi should take over as party chief.

The committee agreed on three issues — inflation, farm laws and unemployment. A detailed plan will be rolled out after approval from acting Congress chief Sonia Gandhi. Other issues like monetisation plan, Covid-19 mismanagement, crime against women and Pegasus were discussed.

"Committee members were of the view that we should take one or two issues at a time and plan agitations, sit-ins, shutdowns and mass outreach programmes for 15-20 days for bigger impact. The plan to keep up the pressure and create an atmosphere against the high handedness of the BJP government. There was agreement that civil society groups should also be approached," said a committee member.

The agitation committee will work parallelly with the agitations planned by the Opposition parties from September 20-30 on several issues against the Centre.

Trust biggest casualty for kids in conflict: Expert

BALA CHAUHAN @ bengaluru

HE still remembers the face of a 16-year-old mother, who was abducted when she was 10 years old by the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) - a banned guerrilla group - in Northern Uganda; was forced to kill her parents, raped and brutalised by the LRA soldiers. "She was one of the many children who were rescued from the LRA by the Ugandan government. We were helping children get back to their lives and re-integrate them with their extended families in their villages," said the well-known City-based psychosocial expert and head of 'Basic Needs India' (BNI), Dr Rajaram Subbian, who was in Uganda between 2004 and 2006 working with the International Rescue Committee, USA. BNI is a voluntary organisation that seeks to address community mental health concerns

He said that the minor had two genuine concerns regarding getting back to her village. "She told me that the villagers would not accept her because she had killed her parents, and secondly, the fact that she did not know who the father of her son was may make it even more difficult for her village to take her in," he added. "Militant leader of the LRA Joseph Kony used to kidnap thousands of children from villages in Uganda to be used as soldiers or sex slaves. Before leaving with his hostages, he used to force them to kill their parents and smear their foreheads with their blood. This 16-year-old girl was also forced to kill her parents when she was abducted," said Subbian.

Subbian has worked extensively with children, young adults and others in war-torn and conflict areas. His first tenure as a psychosocial worker was in Sri Lanka in 1996, at the peak of its 30-year-old civil war. "I had gone to the LTTE strongholds in Northern and Eastern Sri Lanka. They used to conduct propaganda street plays in villages and, by the end of their performance they would invariably take back some adolescent converts in their vehicles. The minors were taken to the LTTE training camps to be trained in all aspects of war. Some, who were rescued by the army, told us they didn't want to go back to the camps and yearned to go to college," said Subbian.

"A five-year-old boy told me he harvests 10 kg of onions every day to earn Rs 5. He was paid 50 paise for plucking 1 kg of onion. I still remember his hands. They were rough and crude. He also told me that he wants to go to school," said the social worker.

Subbian has also worked between 2011 and 2012 in Afghanistan, where he was developing social work curriculum for the Kabul University as part of the UNICEF and Hunters College, USA project. "The normal of a conflict area is very different. In Afghanistan, people were used to seeing places getting bombed and mass casualties. They would carry on with their work in the midst of all this," said Subbian.

Change in rule to make adoption by NRIs easier, two-year stay in India not mandatory

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

THE government is set to make crucial changes in the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act that will facilitate adoption outside India by NRIs, in line with the recent reforms it has brought to ease domestic and foreign adoptions.

The norms earlier mandated monitoring of children adopted under the Act for at least two years which meant that NRIs who adopted kids in India had to stay in the country during this period. Under the latest changes, the government has decided to do away with the norm of mandating adoptive parents to stay in India after adopting a child while also allowing the Central Adoption Resource Agency to issue NOCs in such cases, which as of now, are to be issued only by courts.

Sources in the Union Women and Child Development Ministry said a notification is set to be issued in a day or two. Adoption in India, as of now, is governed under the Juvenile Justice Act and personal law and under Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, Hindus, Buddhists, Jains and Sikhs are permitted to adopt kids.

Sources said the modification was necessitated as there was a gap between this Act and the Hague Convention, the international treaty for intercountry adoption, of which India is a member. Once the new norms are implemented, NRIs will be able to take children to their country of residence by giving a two-week notice and the process of verification will also start simultaneously in that country. Monitoring of children to assess how they are coping in their new home will be carried out by the Indian Mission in those countries.

"Adoptive parents will have to furnish all details including the address to the diplomatic mission and will need to follow the instructions for the safety of the child," another official explained. The move comes shortly after the government modified the JJ Act to give the District Magistrate final authority on adoption.

Modi weaves Jat, farmer uplift into outreach mission

Launches work for a varsity named after Jat royal, lists out welfare scheme for farmers

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday reached out to the farmers protesting against the agri laws, asserting both the Centre and the Uttar Pradesh government were committed to their welfare. Modi was addressing a gathering in Aligarh after laying the foundation stone of a state university named after the late Jat royal Raja Mahendra Pratap Singh, a freedom fighter and an educationist who had donated 90 acres for Aligarh Muslim University.

Drawing a parallel between the efforts made by former prime minister and the late Jat leader Chaudhary Charan Singh, the prime minister said his government, too, was focused on the uplift of small farmers. Touching upon various targeted schemes like hiked MSP, Kisan Credit Card, insurance scheme, pension of ₹3,000, among others, Modi said the government paid ₹1 lakh crore directly to small farmers during the pandemic, of which ₹25,000 crore was paid to farmers in Uttar Pradesh alone. "Eight out of 10 farmers in India have small land holding measuring two bigha or less. So, the Centre's continuous endeavour is to empower these small farmers," Modi said.

Modi also said the UP government had cleared the payment of over ₹1.40 lakh crore to cane farmers. He also mentioned former prime minister and the late Jat leader Chaudhary Charan Singh, commending his works towards small farmers' emancipation.

PM Narendra Modi addressing a gathering at Aligarh on Tuesday | PTI

The foundation-laying ceremony of the university is being seen as a part of BJP's attempt to placate the politically-sensitive Jats in western UP. The Jats had supported the BJP in 2014, 2017 and 2019 polls. The university would be spread over 92 acres, spanning the villages of Lodha and Musepur Kareem Jarouli in Aligarh's Kol tehsil. It will provide affiliation to 395 colleges in the Aligarh division.

Paying tribute to the Raja, Modi said his life was a lesson on indomitable will and willingness to go to any extent to fulfil the dreams. He added Raja Mahendra Pratap Singh devoted every moment of his life for country's freedom.

After taking stock of the development of Aligarh node of UP defense corridor, Modi announced a ₹9,000 crore outlay for the development of BrahMos missile at the corridor's Lucknow node.

NHRC seeks action taken report on farmers' stir

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

INTERVENING in the ongoing farmer protest, the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) on Tuesday asked the Centre and governments of Delhi, Rajasthan, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh to file action taken reports on the ongoing stir, stating it has received several complaints with allegations of adverse impact on the industrial units, seriously affecting more than 9,000 micro, medium and large companies.

The rights panel said transportation has also been adversely impacted due to the protest, causing the commuters, patients, physically challenged people and senior citizens misery.

Elaborating on the alleged inconvenience, NHRC said there are reports of people having to travel long distances to reach their destinations due to the ongoing agitation.

There is an allegation that there is "breach of the corona protocols by the agitating farmers at the protest sites", the commission said. There is allegation that the inhabitants are not being allowed to move out of their houses due to the blockade of the passage, it added.

The National Disaster Management Authority, Ministry of Home Affairs and Ministry of Health, have been asked to submit reports with respect to the "adverse impact" of farmers agitation on various aspects and observance of Covid Protocols at the protests sites. Since November 25 last year, farmers have been protesting at Singhu and Tikri on Delhi-Haryana borders; Ghazipur on Delhi-Uttar Pradesh border, seeking repeal of three agriculture laws.

"Since the agitation involves the issue of human rights, whereas the right to agitate in a peaceful manner is also to be respected, the commission needs to take care of various human rights issues," said NHRC, in a statement.

It directed the Institute of Economic Growth to submit a comprehensive report by October 10 after examining the impact of the farmers' agitation on industrial and commercial activities and and about the protest causing disruption of transport services on commercial and normal consumers, including inconvenience and additional expenditure.

Survey commissioned

The NHRC requested the Delhi School of Social Work to conduct a survey and submit a report, assessing the disruption of livelihood, lives of people due to the protracted agitation

Protesting farmers misread my statement, says Amarinder

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A day after farmers unions took umbrage to his suggestion that protesters move out of Punjab, Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Tuesday said it was unfortunate that the agitators gave a political twist to his statement without understanding the misery they were wreaking on the commoners. He said the farmers' leaders statement against him, despite his government's support to their cause, was uncalled for.

Reacting to Samyukt Kisan Morcha's criticism, Amarinder said they had misinterpreted his appeal and linked it to the upcoming Assembly polls. "The Congress government and the people of Punjab have stood with the farmers on the issue of the farm laws. It is sad they are now suffering due to the continued protests of the farming community across the state," he added.

He asserted there was no question of trying to split the farmers of Punjab and Haryana, all of whom were equal victims of the apathy of the BJP-led governments at the Centre and in the neighbouring state. "My government, in contrast, has not only firmly supported the farmers' fight against the farm laws but has even brought in amendment Bills in the Assembly to mitigate their adverse impact," he pointed out, adding those Bills had, unfortunately, not been forwarded by the Governor to the President for assent.

The people and the government of Punjab have supported the stir. It is sad they are now suffering due to the continued protests of the farming community across the state

Amarinder Singh, Punjab CM

Pointing out that the farmers' fight was against the BJP, which was solely responsible for thrusting the anti-farmer legislations on Punjab and other states, Amarinder said inconveniencing the people of Punjab was not justified in the circumstances. He rejected the Morcha's claims that there was no paralysis of the government in Punjab due to the farmers' protests, pointing out it was not the Adanis or the Ambanis whose interests were being hurt but the common people and the economy.

The Adanis' assets in Punjab were a miniscule 0.8% of their total assets, and the presence of the Reliance Group stood at a nominal 0.1%, Amarinder observed, adding the losses caused to these industries in the state were too minor to be of any concern. "It is the people who are suffering due to the disruption of services as a result of the protests," he said.

He said already the situation is becoming serious on the grain storage and procurement fronts due to the agitation, with lifting of the stocks by the FCI and state agencies getting obstructed.

Didi didn't reveal criminal cases: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kolkata

THE BJP on Tuesday raised objection over the nomination papers filed by West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee for Bhowanipore by-election, alleging she did not disclose the criminal cases pending against her in Assam.

Mamata's contestant and BJP's candidate Priyanka Tibrewal's chief election agent Sajal Ghosh lodged a complaint with the constituency's returning officer, alleging Mamata's failed to disclose five criminal proceedings pending against her in the affidavit.

The letter to the returning officer stated the cases were pending against her in Geeta Nagar, Pan Bazaar, Jagiroad, North Lakhimpur and Udharbond police stations in Assam.

BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari, who defected to the saffron camp from the TMC and defeated Mamata in Nandigram in the recent Assembly election, had raised the same allegation referring the same five cases five months ago.

Adhikari had alleged that the chief minister had not disclosed the cases registered against her by Assam police and CBI in her nomination papers.

A CBI official, however, had stated the accused in the cases mentioned by Adhikari was a different woman and not the TMC chief.

"The BJP has realised it is not going to win the Bhowanipore by-election and that is why they are playing this dirty game. They are raising baseless allegations to malign the chief minister," said TMC Member of Parliament Saugata Roy.

The incumbent has to win from Bhowanipore to continue as the chief minister.

Owaisi's poser to Centre on Taliban

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi on Tuesday dared Prime Minister Narendra Modi to declare the Taliban a 'terrorist-outfit' and place it under the UAPA with immediate effect. Addressing a gathering in Patna, Owaisi said, "Who is stopping the Centre from declaring the Taliban a terrorist outfit? I have been saying since 2013 that emergence of Taliban could become a serious concern in future to India, but it might benefit Pakistan and China," Owaisi said.

When asked about his decision to field mafia don-turned-politicians Mukhtar Ansari and Atiq Ahamad as the AIMIM candidates from Uttar Pradesh, Owaisi said: "Why don't you ask the same question of the BJP whose 37% MLA in UP have criminal cases against them? Why not one talks about Pragya Thakur? Is her image clean?"

On Atiq Ahmed, Owaisi said: "He is a citizen of India and unless and until he is proven guilty, he is eligible to fight elections."

He said his party would contest at least 100 seats in UP. Lashing out at the NDA on the issues of CAA and NRC, Owaisi said the government has committed a 'strategic blunder' in its attempt to corner the minority people. He also lashed out at Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, claiming he had failed completely on the development front. "Incompetent government resorts to survive on sloganeering," Owaisi said in an apparent reference to Yogi's Abbajan barb.

Sushmita gets TMC's Rajya Sabha nomination

First-ever women industrial estate to come up in J&K

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE Union Territory administration would soon set up the first industrial estate for women entrepreneurs. "The Women Industrial Estate will come up at Udhampur Industrial Estate in Jammu region. It will further strengthen the women entrepreneurs ecosystem in J&K," Lt Governor Manoj Sinha announced while launching Mission 'One Gram Panchayat-One DIGI-Pay Sakhi' in J&K. The Department of Revenue has handed over a total of 8,527 Kanals of state land at 21 sites to the Industries and Commerce Department in Udhampur for setting up the industrial estate.

Initially, the DIGI-Pay facility will be provided in 2,000 remote villages and in the first phase, 80 women from Self Help Groups have been selected as DIGI-Pay Sakhis. Sinha said his administration is taking several ground-breaking steps to transform the lives of women of Jammu and Kashmir, especially those living in rural areas by engaging them into gainful livelihood interventions.

It is not known whether the women industrial estate would be set up on a portion of this industrial estate or separate land would be identified for setting up the women industrial estate. Senior businessman and former senior vice president of Kashmir Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KCCI) Sheikh Nasir termed the setting up of first women industrial estate in J&K a welcome step.

"Women empowerment is always welcome. However, the women industrial estate should also be set up in the Valley. Many women entrepreneurs in the Valley are involved in cottage industry, handcrafts and food industry. Besides, there are many women entrepreneurs in small scale industries," he said adding that setting up exclusive industrial estate for women entrepreneurs would encourage more women to take to business and set up small and big units, thus providing employment to the local youth.

J&K Lt Governor said with increasing female literacy rate, providing access to quality education, encouraging more women to become entrepreneurs and providing financial support for the upliftment of women, J&K is leading by example in terms of women empowerment.

Mizoram cops seek information on documents carried by Myanmar nationals caught in Assam

Guwahati: The Mizoram Police have written to their Assam counterpart seeking information on the fake Indian documents which 26 arrested Myanmar nationals were carrying. Two days ago, the foreigners had arrived in Guwahati from Aizawl in some vehicles and checked into a lodge but were arrested. The Assam Police had said the persons from Myanmar's Chin State were headed to Delhi to study theology. The police said forged Indian documents, made in Mizoram, were recovered. Mizoram IGP (Headquarters) John Neihlaia said the Mizoram Police were seeking information on the fake documents. "The statement of the Assam Police says the fake documents were made in Mizoram. So, I had asked my colleagues to write to the Assam Police to share the information on this part. If these were made in Mizoram, we can trace out the people who are engaged in criminal activities," he said.

Judge sacked for landing job with fudged documents

A judge, who was appointed as judicial officer in 2000 on Reserved Backward Certificate (RBA), was terminated after it was found that his category certificate was not genuine. After Allai's appointment as Judicial Officer in 2000, a petition was filed by another judicial officer Javid Ahmad Geelani against him alleging that Allai had secured the appointment on the basis of a fake certificate. The court ruled against the judicial officer Allai and accordingly on directions of the Full Court of J&k High Court, the government terminated services of Judicial Officer. Putin slams presence of foreign troops in Syria

DAMASCUS

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin criticised the presence of foreign troops in Syria, saying they are there against the will of the Syrian government and are blocking the consolidation of the war-torn country, the Kremlin said on Tuesday.

Putin was referring to hundreds of US troops stationed in eastern Syria and working with Kurdish-led fighters in battling the militant Islamic State group, as well as Turkish forces in northern Syria.

Speaking during a rare meeting in Moscow on Monday night with his Syrian counterpart Bashar Assad, he said the presence of the foreigners is illegal because they don't have permission to be there from the United Nations or Syria's government.

Russia joined Syria's 10-year conflict in September 2015, when the Syrian military appeared close to collapse, and has since helped in tipping the balance of power in favor of Assad, whose forces now control much of the country. Hundreds of Russian troops are deployed across Syria and they also have a military air base along Syria's Mediterranean coast. Assad has rarely made trips abroad in the past decade since Syria's conflict began, except to visit key allies Russia and Iran. Assad and Putin discussed cooperation between their armies and ways to continue operations to gain control of the last rebel-held areas in Syria, state media in Damascus reported.

It was the first meeting between the two allies since they held a summit in the Syrian capital in January last year. The two also met in the Black Sea resort of Sochi in 2017 and in Moscow in 2015. Syrian state TV described Monday's meeting as 'long' and said the two were later joined by Syria's foreign minister and Russia's defense minister to discuss mutual relations and fighting terrorism.

"This clearly violates international law and doesn't allow you to make maximum efforts to consolidate the country," Putin was quoted as telling Assad about the foreign forces, according to a statement released by the Kremlin.

"Only a consolidation of all forces in Syria will allow the country to get on its feet and start steady development, moving forward," Putin said.

Putin and Assad also discussed the political process in the war-torn country, the TV said. Syria's conflict began in March 2011 with anti-government protests and later turned into a civil war that has killed half a million people and displaced half the country's pre-war population of 23 million, including 5 million who are refugees outside the country. AP

Putin to self-isolate due to Covid cases among inner circle

Moscow: Russian President Vladimir Putin is going into self-isolation because of coronavirus cases in his inner circle, the Kremlin said Tuesday, adding that he tested negative for Covid. The announcement came in the Kremlin's readout of Putin's phone call with Tajikistan's president. Putin has been fully vaccinated with the Russian coronavirus vaccine Sputnik V, receiving his second shot in April. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters that Putin is 'absolutely healthy,' but will self-isolate after coming in contact with someone who contracted the virus. He didn't clarify for how long Putin would remain in self-isolation, but assured that the president will continue working as usual. Asked if Putin tested negative for the virus, Peskov said 'definitely, yes.' Peskov didn't say who among Putin's contacts were infected, saying only that there were several cases. On Monday, the Russian president attended several public events. He greeted Russian Paralympians, attended military exercises conducted in coordination with Belarus. AFP

Donors pledge emergency fund of $1.2 bn for Af

Western nations open purse strings to protect Afghans from humanitarian crisis

GENEVA

THE United Nations drummed up more than $1.2 billion in emergency pledges for helping 11 million Afghans facing an escalating humanitarian crisis in their homeland and millions more elsewhere in the region as the UN human rights chief voiced concerns about the Taliban's first steps in establishing power in the beleaguered and impoverished country.

At the first high-level conference on Afghanistan since the Taliban took power a month ago, Western governments, big traditional donors and others announced pledges that went beyond the $606 million that the United Nations was seeking to cover costs through the end of the year for protecting Afghans from looming humanitarian disaster.

UN humanitarian chief Martin Griffiths announced at the close of the ministerial meeting that more than $1.2 billion in humanitarian and development aid had been pledged. He said this included the $606 million sought in a 'flash appeal' but also a regional response to the Afghan crisis that UN refugee chief Filippo Grandi spoke about after arriving in Kabul on a previously unannounced visit.

He wrote on Twitter that he would assess humanitarian needs and the situation of 3.5 million displaced Afghans, including over 5,00,000 displaced this year alone.

Officials at the UN refugee agency, UNHCR, have expressed concerns that more Afghans could take refuge into neighboring Pakistan and Iran, which both already have large numbers of Afghans who fled their country during the past decades of war.

Griffiths urged donors to turn Monday's pledges into cash contributions as fast as possible, saying 'the funding will throw a lifeline to Afghans' who lack food, health care and protection.

He said the meeting showed solidarity with the Afghan people but added that 'Afghanistan faces a long and hard road ahead' and this 'is far from the end of the journey.'

It is feared Afghanistan could further plunge toward famine and economic collapse after the chaos of the past month, which saw the Taliban oust the government in a lightning sweep as US and NATO forces exited the 20-year war.

"The people of Afghanistan need a lifeline," UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said at the opening of the conference. He said one in three Afghans don't know where their next meal will come from, the poverty rate is 'spiraling' and basic public services are nearing collapse. A severe drought is jeopardizing the upcoming harvest, and hunger has been rising.

The UN's World Food Program says Afghans are growing increasingly short of cash to buy food, the majority of which, like wheat flour, is imported. Frozen foreign exchanges and a paralysed state budget have stripped people of the money they need just as food and fuel prices have risen. AP

Hundreds march in Kandahar against Taliban evictions

Hundreds of protesters from a neighbourhood populated by former Afghan army servicemen marched in Kandahar Tuesday against plans by the Taliban to evict them from their homes. Residents of Zara Ferqa, a suburb made up of government housing and ramshackle huts, said they had been ordered to leave by the Taliban, but had nowhere else to go.

1,400 Palestinians in Israel jails to hold hunger strike

RAMALLAH

ALMOST 1,400 Palestinians held in Israeli prisons are to go on hunger strike in protest at their detention conditions since a jailbreak last week, the Palestinian Authority said Tuesday.

Tensions have been running high since six inmates staged a dramatic escape from a high-security jail in northern Israel on September 6, via a tunnel dug under a sink. Four of them have since been recaptured.

Hundreds of their fellow inmates were transferred to other jails and personal items confiscated in searches carried out by guards, according to the Palestinian Prisoners' Club. Angry prisoners started fires in several jails.

"The situation is very bad in the prisons, that's why they're going on hunger strike," Qadri Abu Bakr, head of the Palestinian Authority's commission for prisoners, told AFP.

He said 1,380 prisoners -- of more than 4,000 Palestinians held in Israeli jails – were to start the strike action on Friday, to be joined by other inmates next week.

JAPAN, US ASK NORTH KOREA TO RETURN TO ARMS TALKS

TOKYO

SENIOR diplomats from Japan, the United States and South Korea on Tuesday called on North Korea to return to talks over its missile and nuclear development, a day after Pyongyang announced it successfully tested new long-range cruise missiles, suggesting advancement of its military capabilities.

The three-way meeting in Tokyo included US Special Representative for North Korea Policy Sung Kim, South Korea's Special Representative for Korean Peninsula Peace and Security Affairs Noh Kyu-duk and Japan's Director-General for Asian and Oceanian affairs Takehiro Funakoshi.

US envoy Kim said the three countries were open to diplomacy with the North "as we see to make tangible progress that increases the security of the United States and our allies."

Kim called on North Korea to "respond positively to our multiple offers to meet without preconditions".

Washington and its allies will continue to work to fully implement all United Nations Security Council resolutions in addressing North Korea's missile development, he added.

On Monday, the state-run Korean Central News Agency reported that the new missiles showed they can hit targets 1,500 km (930 miles) away.

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi was also set to arrive in Seoul on Tuesday for talks with South Korean officials over bilateral relations and the freeze in nuclear diplomacy.

Germany compensates 249 persecuted over homosexuality law

BERLIN

GERMAN authorities have compensated nearly 250 people who were prosecuted or investigated under a Nazi-era law criminalising homosexuality that continued to be enforced enthusiastically after World War II.

The Federal Office of Justice said Monday that, up to the end of August, 317 people had applied for compensation and it had been paid out in 249 cases. So far, it has paid out nearly 860,000 euros (just over $1 million). Fourteen applications are still being processed, 18 were rejected and 36 were withdrawn, the office said. The deadline for applications is July 21 next year.

German lawmakers in 2017 approved the annulment of thousands of convictions under the Paragraph 175 law, which remained in force in West Germany in its Nazi-era form until homosexuality was decriminalized in 1969. They cleared the way for payments of 3,000 euros per conviction, plus 1,500 euros for every year of jail time those convicted started.

In 2019, the government extended compensation to people who were put under investigation or taken into investigative custody but not convicted. It offered payments of 500 euros per investigation opened, 1,500 euros for each year of time in pre-trial custody started, and 1,500 euros for other professional, financial or health disadvantages related to the law.

Food delivery services may face higher GST

GST Council may discuss the proposal of rate fitment panel to consider food delivery apps as restaurant services

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

FOOD delivery services are likely to get expensive as the GST Council will discuss the proposal to consider food delivery apps such as Swiggy and Zomato as restaurant services.

According to sources in the finance ministry, the fitment committee has proposed that all e-commerce companies who are engaged in food delivery like Swiggy, Zomato, FoodPanda should be treated as restaurant services and taxed accordingly, by bringing them under Section 9 (5) of the CGST Act.

Currently, the GST is paid by the restaurants and not by the delivery apps.

The proposal is likely to be discussed in the upcoming GST Council meeting to be held in Lucknow on September 17, and will be subject to approval of the council.

The 45th GST Council meeting, to be chaired by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, will discuss the extension of compensation cess beyond five years, as demanded by some of the states, given the aftershocks of Covid-19. States are demanding compensation beyond the promised deadline of June 22, citing Covid shock. But, the Centre is reluctant to do so.

However, the official has ruled out bringing petrol and diesel under the ambit of GST in this meeting, as reported by a section of media.

"I do not think this is going to happen atleast in immediate future. At this point of time this is neither practical nor feasible. States will not let go their power to tax on petrol and diesel. Even if it has to come, this is certainly not the year to go about it," another official in the finance ministry told TNIE.

Another issue which will be discussed in the meeting is the fate of National Anti-profiteering Authority (NAA), whose tenure ends in November. The council will review its performance and may consider even merging it with the Competition Commission of India.

Besides, the council will also take a call on extending the concessional rates for Covid-19-related drugs, including remdesivir, till December 31, in the wake of rising Covid cases in some states and the prediction of third wave.

The council will also take up items which require correction of inverted duty structure.

ON THE TABLE

- The GST rate fitment committee has proposed that e-commerce companies engaged in food delivery should be treated as restaurant services
- Currently, the GST is paid by restaurants and not by the food delivery apps
- Food delivery firms like Swiggy, Zomato and others to face the impact

SOUTH KOREA FINES GOOGLE $177 MN

South Korea's antitrust regulator has fined Alphabet Inc's Google 207 billion won ($176.64 million) for blocking customised versions of its Android operating system (OS), in the US technology giant's second setback in the country in less than a month. The fine could be the ninth-biggest Korea has ever imposed. The Korea Fair Trade Commission (KFTC) on Tuesday said terms with device makers amounted to abuse of Google's dominant market position that restricted competition in the mobile OS market. Google, which intends to appeal, said the ruling ignores benefits offered by Android's compatibility with other programmes and undermines advantages enjoyed by consumers. The fine comes on the day an amendment to South Korea's Telecommunications Business Act – dubbed as "anti-Google law" – came into effect. The law now bans app store operators such as Google from requiring software developers use their payment systems – a requirement which stopped developers from charging commission on in-app purchases.

INDONESIA

INDONESIA SETS 2022 GDP GROWTH TARGET AT 5.2%

The Indonesian parliament's budget committee and the government have agreed to set a 2022 economic growth target of 5.2%, roughly the midpoint of President Joko Widodo's proposal for 5.0%-5.5%, the committee's chair Said Abdullah said on Tuesday.The committee and the government also tentatively agreed to raise the 2022 spending plans to 2,714.2 trillion rupiah ($190.31 billion). That is up slightly from the president's proposal in August of 2,708.7 trillion rupiah, assuming a similar increase in revenues. The budget deficit target remains set at 4.85% of GDP. A wider parliamentary vote is needed for the 2022 budget, likely later this month or in October, but the committee's endorsement is usually passed. Indonesia is to buy back some global bonds after raising $1.84 billion. Indonesia has raised $1.84 billion from the sale of bonds denominated in US dollars and euros, according to documents and a government statement, with part of the proceeds to be used to repurchase outstanding dollar bonds. The buy back offer is the first such move by the Southeast Asian country for dollar bonds, which may be intended to manage liquidity ahead of US tapering, analysts said.

MALAYSIA

MALAYSIA TO LIFT GOVT DEBT CEILING TO 65% OF GDP

Malaysia's cabinet has proposed raising the government's statutory debt ceiling to 65% of gross domestic product, as part of measures to deal with the economic fallout of the Covid-19 pandemic, the finance minister said on Tuesday. This is the second time in as many years that the government has sought to raise its debt ceiling. In 2020, it was raised to 60% here of GDP, the first increase since July, 2009. The cabinet has also proposed boosting the size of the government's Covid-19 fund to 110 billion ringgit ($26.53 billion) from 65 billion ringgit ($15.67 billion), minister Tengku Zafrul Aziz said in a statement. The two proposals will be tabled to parliament in October for approval and are aimed at strengthening the public health system, improving social aid measures, and providing support to businesses, he said. Malaysia cut its 2021 growth outlook twice this year as new coronavirus lockdown measures dampened its recovery, and now expects the economy to expand 3-4%, down from an earlier projection of 6-7.5%. The government plans to table its budget for 2022 next month, aimed at prioritising post-pandemic recovery and reforms.

Zomato's top executive quits 2 months after IPO

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

TWO months after Zomato raised $1.3 billion in a record-breaking IPO, the food delivery major's Chief Operating officer (COO) Gaurav Gupta, who was elevated to the position of a founder in 2019, has quit the company. Gupta, was one of the senior management executives who became the face of the company during its Initial Public Offering announcements and finalising the foodtech firm's business strategy post-IPO.

"I am taking a new turn in my life and will be starting a new chapter, taking a lot from this defining chapter of my life – the last 6 years at Zomato. We have a great team now to take Zomato forward...

Gaurav Gupta

The development comes days after Zomato confirmed that it will wind up its in-app grocery delivery business, Hyperpure, and the food supplements vertical, Nutraceuticals — both divisions were headed by Gupta.

Sources said that Zomato's CEO, Deepinder Goyal has been pushing for profitability, at a time when its dine-out businesses dealt a heavy blow by the Covid pandemic. "Both Hyperpure and Nutraceutical verticals have failed to achieve any growth and the focus will be on the core-food delivery model," as per the persons privy to the matter.

Although, both Goyal and Gupta shared cordial messages in a blogpost put out by the Gurgaon-headquartered firm, the top executives reportedly had a fallout. "I am taking a new turn in my life and will be starting a new chapter, taking a lot from this defining chapter of my life – the last 6 years at Zomato. We have a great team now to take Zomato forward and it's time for me to take an alternate path in my journey. I am very emotional as I write this and don't think any words can do justice to how I am feeling right now," Gupta said.

Zomato reported a net consolidated loss of ₹356.2 crore as against the loss of ₹130.8 crore in Q4, FY21. The firm's loss for FY21 stood at ₹816 crore, according to first quarterly results. The consumer internet firm said that the losses are largely due to non-cash Employee stock option programme (ESOP) expenses which have increased due to significant ESOP grants.

WPI inflation stays in double digits on costlier manufacturing goods, fuel

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

EVEN when food prices softened, the wholesale price inflation rose marginally to 11.39% in August, staying in double digit for the fifth month in row, on account of costlier manufactured goods and fuel.

In July 2021, WPI inflation was 11.16%, while in August 2020 it was 0.41%.

"The high rate of inflation in August 2021 is primarily due to rise in prices of non-food articles, mineral oils; crude petroleum and natural gas; manufactured products like basic metals; food products; textiles; chemicals and chemical products etc. as compared to the corresponding month of the previous year," the commerce ministry said.

Inflation in food articles eased for the fourth straight month, recording contraction by 1.29% in August, however price of onion and pulses were up. Inflation in crude petroleum and natural gas was 40.03% in August. In manufactured goods, inflation stood at 11.39% in August, against 11.20% in July. The manufactured goods inflation has remained in double digit for the fourth month in a row.

ICRA Chief Economist Aditi Nayar said the core WPI inflation has displayed an uninterrupted hardening for 15 consecutive months to a fresh all-time high of 11.1% in August 2021, belying the anticipation that the July 2021 print would prove to be the peak. "The headline and core WPI inflation are expected to print in double-digits until October 2021, and then halve by the end of the year. The mild uptick in the Aug '21 WPI print does not alter our expectation of a status quo in Oct MPC review," Nayar added.

Prices of non-food articles see upward movement

The high rate of inflation in August 2021 is primarily due to rise in prices of non-food articles, mineral oils; crude petroleum and natural gas; manufactured products like basic metals; food products; textiles; and chemical products etc., the commerce ministry said.

Telcos tweaking tariffs, Jio launches new plan

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

EVEN as it waits for government support in the form of a relief package, the telecom industry continues to gradually increase tariffs in bits and pieces. Following similar moves by Vodafone Idea and Bharti Airtel, rival Reliance Jio has now introduced a new entry-level prepaid plan for its JioPhone users, replacing two earlier plans that were cheaper but valid for fewer days.

The new plan is valid for 26 days and priced at ₹75. It offers unlimited local and national calling and 3GB of data. On the other hand, the discontinued plans were priced at ₹39 and ₹69 and valid only for 14 days. The ₹39 plan had offered users 100MB of data per day, and the ₹69 plan 0.5GB per day.

Jio's move echoes recent measures by Airtel and Vodafone Idea earlier this summer to increase their average revenue per user (ARPU) figures. Airtel had discontinued its ₹49 prepaid plan in all 22 circles in July, and introduced a new entry-level plan at ₹79 per month. Airtel had also tweaked its postpaid plans for its enterprise customers, discontinuing the ₹199 and ₹249 per month plans for the segment and increasing tariffs. Vodafone Idea had followed Airtel's move, introducing a new Business Plus postpaid package for enterprise users.

Analysts say the recent hikes and those expected to be rolled out soon will help telecom companies increase their revenues, with consumer spends on mobile packages expected to rise by 5% sequentially in the current quarter. The upswing in revenues would come at an opportune time for telecom firms, whose ARPUs have seen a drastic fall over the past few quarters.

According to Edelweiss analysts, the sector and Vodafone Idea, in particular, would need sizable tariff hikes.VIL has been strapped for cash with substantial payments upcoming. "The structural issue undermining the sector can be solved only with a sizable tariff hike for 4G prepaid customers," it said.

NOCIL

NOCIL aims to ramp up its capacity to optimal levels by Sep'23, this will help to increase its global market share to reach 7–8% (from 5% currently). The management continues to believe that optimal capacity utilization for the expanded capacity (of 110ktpa) would be achieved by 1HFY24. Although, conservatively, we expect the same by end-FY24 (translating to a volume CAGR of ~20%). As a result, we forecast a revenue/EPS CAGR of 28%/47% over FY21–24E.

RBI ties up with Singapore's central bank to allow real-time money transfer

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

IN a significant move aimed to facilitate the low-cost cross border transactions, the Reserve Bank of India has announced a collaboration with the Singapore's central bank, Monetary Authority of Singapore, to link their respective real-time payment systems, United Payment Interface (UPI) and Paynow respectively. The linkage is expected to be implemented by July 22.

Singapore has , thus, become the second country after the United Arab Emirates(UAE) which has adopted the UPI payment system of India through which the users can make bank transfers on their mobile phones using a phone number. This comes at a time when UPI's popularity as a digital payment system is at an-time high crossing 3 billion transactions in volume per month.

RBI said in a statement that the UPI-PayNow linkage is a significant milestone in the development of infrastructure for cross-border payments between India and Singapore, and closely aligns with the G20's financial inclusion priorities of driving faster, cheaper and more transparent cross-border payments. The linkage builds upon the earlier efforts of NPCI International Private Limited (NIPL) and Network for Electronic Transfers (NETS) to foster cross-border interoperability of payments using cards and QR codes, between India and Singapore and will further anchor trade, travel and remittance flows between the two countries, the RBI said.

As per a statement by the MAS,. When implemented, fund transfers can be made from India to Singapore using mobile phone numbers, and from Singapore to India using UPI virtual payment addresses (VPA). The experience of making a PayNow transfer to a UPI VPA will be similar to that of a domestic transfer to a PayNow VPA, it added.

HIRING SPREE

Higher wages on card amid talent shortage

SAMIKSHA GOEL @New Delhi

WHILE the hiring sentiment for Q4 is the strongest reported in seven years, India Inc continues to face shortage of skilled talent.

According to the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey (MEOS) released on Tuesday, several companies across India are hiring, but are unable to match job profiles with talent due to lack of requisite skills. As many as 62% of employers are facing some kind of difficulty while 27% are going through a lot of difficulty and only 10% see no difficulty at all.

Indian employers, says the survey, report bullish hiring intentions for the October to December period with 64% of employers forecasting an increase in payrolls.

To offset the shortage, however, organisations are looking for ways of incentivising skilled talent to join their teams and retain the existing ones. For this reason, 55% employers are offering training, skills development or mentoring, 49% are extending flexible work schedules and 41% are also providing higher wages.

Latest data from employment consultant Quess also highlights that the demand for talent with digital skills has seen a surge since last quarter.

Vijay Sivaram, CEO, Quess IT Staffing, says: "Experts are calling this period 'The Great Resignation', as the unceasing talent surge has disrupted the demand-supply equilibrium, driving organisations to focus on both, talent attraction as well as talent retention."

Robust hiring during October-December period

Employers are bullish hiring intentions for the October to December period with 64% of employers forecasting an increase in payrolls, according to the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook survey.

Malinga retires from all forms of cricket

Sri Lanka pace veteran Lasith Malinga on Tuesday announced his retirement from all forms of cricket. A white ball legend in his own right and one of the greatest T20 bowlers, the 38-year-old was captain of Sri Lanka's 2014 T20 World Cup winning team. He posted a message on his social media account announcing his decision.

Domestic cricketers set for hike in match fee

Working group proposes 50-70% of Ranji Trophy match fee as compensation to players for curtailed 2020-21 season

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

WITH India's domestic season starting next week, there is finally some good news for the players, umpires, match officials and scorers. The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI), during its Apex Council meeting on September 20, is all set to come up with a compensation package for the curtailed 2020/21 season. There are also strong indications that the Ranji match fee will also be increased from ₹1.4 lakh to anywhere between ₹2-2.5 lakh beginning with the upcoming season.

Soon after taking charge as BCCI president, Sourav Ganguly had floated the idea of state units bringing a contract system for the domestic cricketers. With many players suffering because of a curtailed 2020/21 season which had no room for Ranji Trophy, a contract system would have ensured everyone got their usual share of income. Instead, players who feature only in Ranji Trophy are without pay since March 2020. Although the BCCI had been maintaining that a compensation package will be rolled out for domestic cricketers, umpires, referees, video analysts and scorers, the process has been very slow. And the working group formed by the BCCI met only a fortnight ago, after nearly 50 days since its formation to decide the way forward.

The group comprising Rohan Jaitley (north zone), Yudhvir Singh (central), Jaydev Shah (west), Devajit Saikia (north-east), Avishek Dalmiya (east) and Santhosh Menon, and Mohammad Azharuddin (south) has left the decision to the office-bearers. "They have waited for so long, and in another few days, the package will be announced. All of us felt that not just the players but even the match officials have to be compensated in the right way possible. The strength of Indian cricket lies in the domestic circuit and for it to be healthy, it needs to improve on all fronts. The package will definitely be on the higher side," a BCCI official familiar with the developments told this newspaper.

It is understood that the working group has proposed 50-70 per cent of total match fee from a Ranji Trophy season as a compensation package. In the likelihood of BCCI keeping it to 50 per cent, a player will get ₹70,000 per match. With the 2019/20 season seeing each team playing a minimum of eight matches, the BCCI is likely to keep the same number for consideration. This would mean, a player will get a minimum of ₹5,60,000. "This could go up too. It is up to the office-bearers to decide a suitable package that factors in everything," the official added. There are indications that players' compensation package will be on the higher side because the BCCI has to suitably pay the umpires, match officials, video analysts and scorers. What is left to be decided is whether all players who were part of the 2019/20 season have to be considered or whether state units will be asked to come up with names.

SRH, KKR have task cut out

With the 2021 edition of the IPL set to resume in the UAE from September 19 after it was suspended in May midway through the season owing to Covid-19, the teams have to adjust to a change in venue midway through a season as well as the fact that quite a few players are now unavailable. As part of the build-up, here's a look at how Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) and Sunrisers Hyderabad (SRH) — ranked 7th and 8th currently — stack up...

SUNRISERS HYDERABAD

CURRENT POSITION IN LEAGUE TABLE: 8TH

STAR PERFORMER RASHID KHAN (10 WICKETS)

Matches played 7

Matches remaining 7

STORY SO FAR: In seven games in India, SRH managed just a lone victory. Other than that, it has been a bleak season that has also entailed a change in leadership from David Warner to Kane Williamson. Williamson took the reins for their seventh game — against Rajasthan Royals — but there was no change in fortunes as they endured a 55-run defeat. While bowling has always been a strength of theirs, their batting department will need to click. They will not have the services of Jonny Bairstow, who was their leading run-getter in the India leg with 248 runs.

KOLKATA KNIGHT RIDERS

CURRENT POSITION IN LEAGUE TABLE: 7TH

STAR PERFORMER VARUN C (7 WICKETS)

Matches played 7

Matches remaining 7

STORY SO FAR

The Knight Riders seem to have all the armoury in their squad to pose a serious title challenge but haven't been able to get their act together so far with just two wins. One of their main issues has been a tendency to lose a cluster of wickets at the top and leave their lower-order with too much to do. The likes of Andre Russell can do severe damage at the fag end, but they need Shubman Gill and the others to lay a platform. In the bowling department, Varun Chakravarthy should be buoyed by his selection for the T20 WC.

25 shooters asked to pay Rs 4.5L to compete

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

BASED on their performances during the selection trials, the National Rifle Association of India (NRAI) had selected an 85-member shooting team for the upcoming Junior World Championship on August 27. The youngsters were an excited bunch after making the cut for the marquee event. But that excitement has turned into gloom for some. Barely two weeks before the start of the event, which is due to be held from September 27 to October 10, NRAI has excluded as many as 25 shooters from their list after failing to get government clearance.

The NRAI will be sending just the top-three ranked shooters from each category. The rest? They have the option to travel but will have to bear the expenses out of their own pockets. NRAI notified the shooters through an email on Monday. Some of the shooters on the list include rifle shooter Mehuli Ghosh (who is ranked No 4), Gurman Singh (rifle), Shapath Bharadwaj (shotgun).

"This is to inform you that your participation in the ISSF Junior World Championship (in Lima, Peru) (list attached) is not approved," the NRAI's mail stated. "In view of the above, you are required to inform us whether you will be participating in the above competition at your own cost. The approximate cost for participation is Rs 4.5 lakh which includes lodging/entry fee/visa/transport/kit/covid test/miscellaneous," it added. The last day for intimation was Tuesday.

The parents of the shooters are certainly not amused. "Actually, on Friday we received a mail saying that we have to send the necessary documents for the visa as soon as possible. Yesterday (Monday) I was checking all the bank statements and other necessary documents and somebody in the evening called and said that they are taking only the top three shooters and the rest have to go on their own. So we dropped the programme because it's too costly for us," one of the parents said.

"Our child don't even have a sponsor. He was so looking forward to this event and had sacrificed a lot during training in the last six months or so. He is really dejected," the parent added.

Another parent, whom this daily got in touch with, echoed the same sentiment. "This is really demotivating. They had done everything that was required and were looking forward to the event. To cough up Rs 4.5 lakh is no joke."

Despite repeated attempts, NRAI could not be reached for a comment.

Nat'l athletics meet to be low-key affair

VIVEK KRISHNAN @ Chennai

THE 60th National Open Athletics Championship, which will be held in Warangal, Telangana, from Wednesday to Sunday, is set to be a low-key affair with plenty of big names missing from the event. Among the Tokyo Olympians, race walker Bhawna Jat and quarter-miler Revathi Veeramani will be the only athletes participating in the five-day meet.

Both of them are employed by Railways and will represent their department in the event. Punjab's Kamalpreet Kaur, who is an employee of Railways too, also had her name in the entry list for women's discus throw, but she will not be taking part in the event owing to a shoulder and knee injury.

The 25-year-old national record holder has had a memorable few weeks having finished sixth at the Tokyo Olympics. She revealed that she was nursing pain in her shoulder and knee even during the marquee event.

"I am taking rest right now. I have not been able to practice since the Olympics. Initially, there was a lot of pain. During the Olympics, I had to tape both my shoulder and knee while throwing. The shoulder injury was sustained during the Indian Grand Prix in June while the knee injury was sustained just a week before the Olympics," Kamalpreet said.

The discus thrower is expected to return to training at the end of this month. "The focus for me will be the World Championships next year. There is also the Commonwealth Games and Asian Games, but the Worlds is the next big event that I am hoping to do well in," she added. For a lot of India's athletes, it has been hard to get breathing space given the numerous felicitation events that they have had to attend since coming back from the Olympics. It has affected their plans to resume training as well.

Nigeria is seeing one of its worst cholera outbreaks in years, with more than 2,300 people dying from suspected cases as Africa's most populous country struggles to deal with multiple disease outbreaks

Farming subsidies worth around $500 bn doled out by governments every year must be repurposed, three UN agencies warned ahead of a food systems summit next week, citing the environmental & social damage caused

EXFILE • SCIENCE

BEYOND YOUR LINE OF SIGHT

How do you see what's inside a room without going in? Contrary to what superhero movies indicate (especially the implausible sonar idea in The Dark Knight), finding out what's going on in structures from the outside is incredibly difficult. This field of research, called non-line-of-sight imaging, is still young and has not explored a closed room. This is where three Stanford researchers come in, with a keyhole imaging technique that shines a laser beam through, you guessed it, a keyhole and creates a single dot of light on the wall inside. We take a look at their work as well as the progress of this new science

2014

Researchers Antonio Torralba and Bill Freeman figured out computers can detect faint images that are the result of an environment's objects blocking light rays (The computer subtracts the intensity of light when an object doesn't block rays and when it does)

1/100

Freeman et al. built algorithms that can also detect colour changes and really tiny motions, as detailed as down to a one-hundredth of a pixel

Bill Freeman (L) & Antonio Torralba

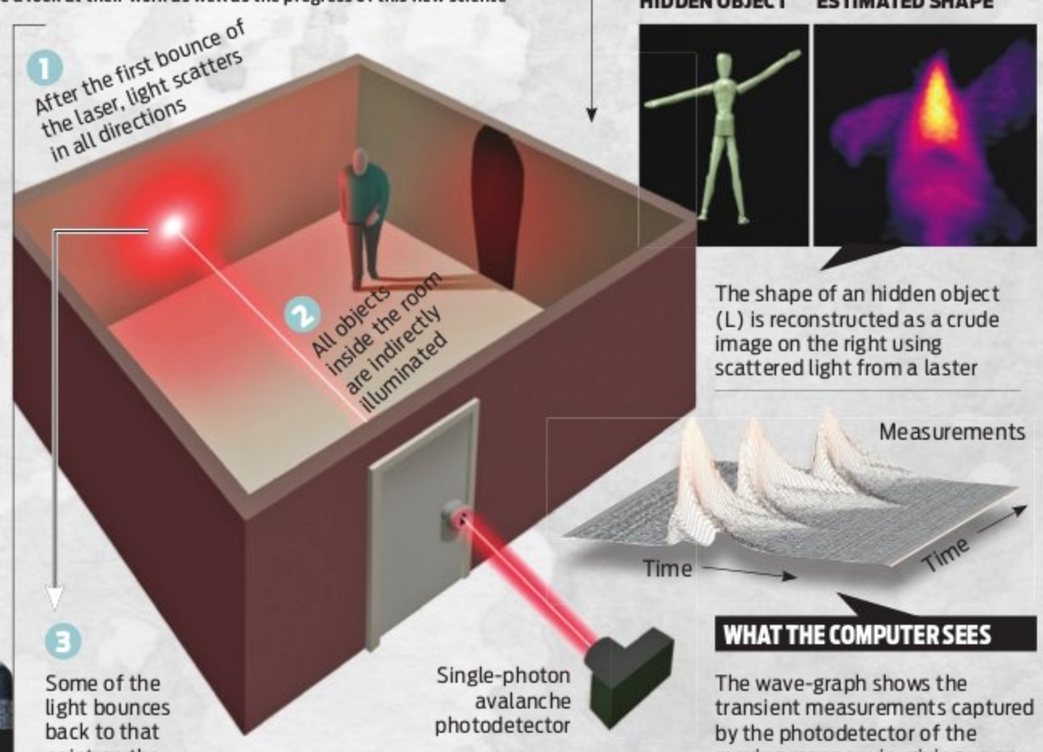
VISUAL MICROPHONES

Mary had a little lamb...

A man is heard saying in audio rebuilt from the motions of an empty chip bag, captured using a video camera through a soundproof window in 2014. When sound hits an object it causes small vibrations on its surface, which can be captured by speed video and then reconstructed. The study was also done by Torralba and Freeman

1877

"Mary had a little lamb..." are the first words recorded by Thomas Edison in a phonograph in 1877



1 After the first bounce of the laser, light scatters in all directions
2 All objects inside the room are indirectly illuminated
3 Some of the light bounces back to that point on the wall and then returns to the device

WHAT'S NEW?

Prior research could calculate using light patterns what was around corners and what's inside rooms with open doors (but out of line of sight).This new study from the Stanford Computational Imaging Lab could see inside the closed room and find out which objects are moving inside it (though it doesn't work well with static objects)

HIDDEN OBJECT ESTIMATED SHAPE

The shape of an hidden object (L) is reconstructed as a crude image on the right using scattered light from a laster

WHAT THE COMPUTER SEES

The wave-graph shows the transient measurements captured by the photodetector of the moving mannequin, giving us an idea of the shape and the trajectory of the object with the aid of algorithms

2016

The US' military was quick to recognise the results and get into the non-line-of-sight imaging game, especially after another crucial paper by MIT researchers in the Nature journal (Raskar R et al, 2012)

$27 mn

The US military's long-term R&D unit, the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), pumped in $27 mn into a new REVEAL programme, which stands for Revolutionary Enhancement of Visibility by Exploiting Active Light-fields. DARPA funded a number of labs and since then insights have poured in to make such imaging more powerful. It should be noted that the internet was born due to DARPA funding and support

2018

Freeman et al built the "light field" of a room based on the shadows cast by a leafy plant inside it — a key breakthrough. The light field maps the intensity and directions of light rays inside a room

Laser imaging pioneer

Ramesh Raskar, an MIT computer vision researcher, pioneered the technique of shooting laser pulses at a wall and having scattered light bounce around. A "streak camera" can then record photons in the light at billions of frames per second, allowing scientists to build a 3D image of objects

WHAT SUCH IMAGING CAN BE USED FOR

SEARCH AND RESCUE

People trapped inside collapsed buildings can be rescued using non-line-of-sight imaging

SELF-DRIVING CARS

Artificial Intelligence on autonomous cars can make better calculations about what's in the proximity

MEDICAL PROCEDURES

Imaging algorithms can perhaps be modified to find tumours and other objects inside the body

REMOTE SENSING

Bringing sci-fi to life, an internal structure of a large building can be mapped

SPYING

The downside of developing these technologies is that governments can use them for spying. This imaging can also dispel fog of war

FB shields VIPs from its content rules: Report

Certain high-profile users "white-listed", given protection from enforcement actions

TECHNOLOGY

SAN FRANCISCO: Facebook exempts certain celebrities, politicians and other high-profile users from some its own rules for posts as part of a program launched as a quality-control mechanism, The Wall Street Journal reported on Monday.

The program, referred to as "cross check" or "XCheck," shields millions of elite users from rules that Facebook claims to apply equally at the social network, according to a report citing internal documents. Facebook spokesman Andy Stone in a series of tweets defended the program, but noted the social media giant is aware its enforcement of rules is "not perfect".

"There aren't two systems of justice; it's an attempted safeguard against mistakes," Stone tweeted in response to the Journal report. "We know our enforcement is not perfect and there are tradeoffs between speed and accuracy."

The article cites examples of posts from high-profile people, including one from soccer star Neymar showing nude images of a woman who accused him of rape and that Facebook subsequently removed.

A double-standard regarding content moderation would defy assurances Facebook gave to an independent board set up as a final arbiter of disputes regarding what is allowed to be posted at the leading social network. "The Oversight Board has expressed on multiple occasions its concern about the lack of transparency in Facebook's content moderation processes, especially relating to the company's inconsistent management of high-profile accounts," board spokesman John Taylor said to an AFP inquiry.

The Journal article reports that some users are "white-listed," given protection from enforcement actions, while in other cases reviews of potentially problematic content simply fail to take place.

"White-listed" accounts have shared claims that Hillary Clinton had covered up "pedophile rings," and that then-President Donald Trump had called all refugees seeking asylum "animals," according to the Journal. XCheck grew to include at least 5.8 million users in 2020, the report indicated.

FB said in a post about cross-checking three years ago that it does not protect the profile, page or content from being removed but "is simply done to make sure our decision is correct." An internal review of Facebook's whitelisting said that "We are not actually doing what we say we do publicly". It called the company's actions "a breach of trust" and added: "Unlike the rest of our community, these people can violate our standards without any consequences."

Apple patches up flaw that allowed Pegasus invasion

TECHNOLOGY

SAN FRANCISCO: Apple users were urged on Tuesday to update their devices after the tech giant announced a fix for a major software flaw that allows the Pegasus spyware to be installed on phones without so much as a click.

Cybersecurity experts at the Citizen Lab, a research centre at the University of Toronto, uncovered the flaw while analyzing the phone of a Saudi activist. That person is among tens of thousands believed to have been targeted with the Israeli-made Pegasus software, which has been used worldwide to intercept the communications of activists, journalists and even heads of state.

Apple said Monday that it had "rapidly" developed a software update after Citizen Lab alerted it to the hole in its iMessage software on September 7.

"Attacks like the ones described are highly sophisticated, cost millions of dollars to develop, often have a short shelf life, and are used to target specific individuals," the company said. Citizen Lab said it was urging people "to immediately update all Apple devices".

Explosive revelations that governments have spied on people using the hugely invasive software — which was developed by the NSO Group, a secretive Israeli firm — have ricocheted around the world since July. Once Pegasus is installed on a phone, it can be used to read a target's messages, look at their photos, track their movements and even switch on their camera — all without the person knowing.

The flaw fixed by Apple on Monday is a so-called "zero-click exploit", meaning that it can be installed on a device without the owner needing to do so much as click a button.

Less sophisticated spyware tools have generally required the target to click on a booby-trapped link or file in order to start tapping communications. Citizen Lab said it believed the flaw had been used to install Pegasus since Feb or earlier.

Fully automated flight into Earth's orbit

SPACE

CAPE CANAVERAL: For the first time in 60 years of human spaceflight, a rocket is poised to blast into orbit with no professional astronauts on board, only four tourists.

SpaceX's first private flight will be led by a 38-year-old entrepreneur who's bankrolling the entire trip. He's taking two sweepstakes winners with him on the three-day, round-the-world trip, along with a health care worker who survived childhood cancer.

They'll ride alone in a fully automated Dragon capsule, the same kind that SpaceX uses to send astronauts to and from the International Space Station for NASA. But the chartered flight won't be going there.

Set to launch Wednesday night from Kennedy Space Center, the two men and two women will soar 160 km higher than the space station, aiming for an altitude of 575 km, just above the current position of the Hubble.

By contrast, Virgin Galactic's Richard Branson and Blue Origin's Jeff Bezos briefly skimmed space during their short rides in July — Branson reached 86 km while Bezos hit 106 km. As the private flight's benefactor, Jared Isaacman, sees it: "This is the first step toward a world where everyday people can go and venture among the stars."

FACT OF THE MATTER

Concrete made of blood, tears

SPACE

Scientists have created a concrete-like material made of extraterrestrial dust along with the blood, sweat and tears of astronauts. Transporting even a single brick to Mars can prove to be very expensive — about US $2 mn — which means that future Martian colonists cannot bring their building materials with them, but will have to utilise resources they can obtain on-site for construction and shelter. But, scientists at the University of Manchester demonstrated that a common protein from blood plasma could act as a binder for moon or Mars dust to produce a concrete-like material. The resulting material, termed AstroCrete, had compressive strengths as high as 25 MPa, about the same as the 20-32 MPa seen in ordinary concrete.

Ancient tomb reopened

ARCHAEOLOGY

Egypt on Tuesday showcased an ancient tomb structure belonging to the cemetery complex of King Djoser, a pharaoh who lived more than 4,500 years ago, following extensive restorations of the site. The structure — known as the Southern Tomb — is largely underground and includes a labyrinth of corridors, decorated with hieroglyphic carvings and tiles. A central funeral shaft houses a massive granite-clad sarcophagus from Egypt's Third Dynasty. However, the pharaoh was not actually buried there but in the famed Step Pyramid nearby. The two structures make up part of the Saqqara complex near Cairo — one of the country's richest archeological sites.

Japanese cat lovers crowdfund research into kidney disease that cuts short feline lives

RESEARCH

TOKYO: Cats may have nine lives, but their time on Earth is often cut short by kidney problems — so people in Japan who want their feline friends to live longer lives have donated nearly $2 million to the search for a cure.

As the coronavirus pandemic hit the economy last year, scientists at the University of Tokyo lost their corporate funding for a study on preventing kidney disease in cats.

But thousands of Japanese cat lovers mobilised online to donate to the researchers after an article about their plight by news agency Jiji Press went viral. "I lost my beloved cat to kidney disease last December... I hope this research will progress and help many cats to live without this disease," one woman wrote in a message alongside her $20 donation.

Another donor, who gave $90, said: "I recently got a kitten. I make a donation in the hope that it will be in time for this cat." Domesticated cats and their bigger cousins in the wild are highly prone to kidney problems because of a genetic inability to activate a key protein discovered by the Tokyo researchers. The protein called AIM helps clean up dead cells and other waste in the body, preventing the kidneys from becoming clogged.

Immunology professor Toru Miyazaki and his team are working on ways to produce the protein in a stable quantity and quality.

> I hope that ultimately veterinarians will give (cats) jabs every year like vaccines
>
> Toru Miyazaki, immunology professor

They hope to develop a new remedy they say could double the current feline life expectancy of roughly 15 years.

"I hope that ultimately veterinarians will give (cats) jabs every year like vaccines," Miyazaki told the AFP-affiliated AFPBB News.

"It would be good to give them one or two doses every year" of AIM, he said.

Around 3,000 unsolicited donations were sent to the team hours after the article was published in July.

This surged to 10,000 in just a few days — more than the total number of donations the university usually receives in a year. And by mid-September, the amount donated had reached $1.9 million.

"It was the first time I understood first-hand how much my research is anticipated," said Miyazaki. His team's research on how AIM functions in the body was published in 2016 in the journal Nature Medicine.

They are also developing pet food with a substance that could help activate AIM in feline blood.

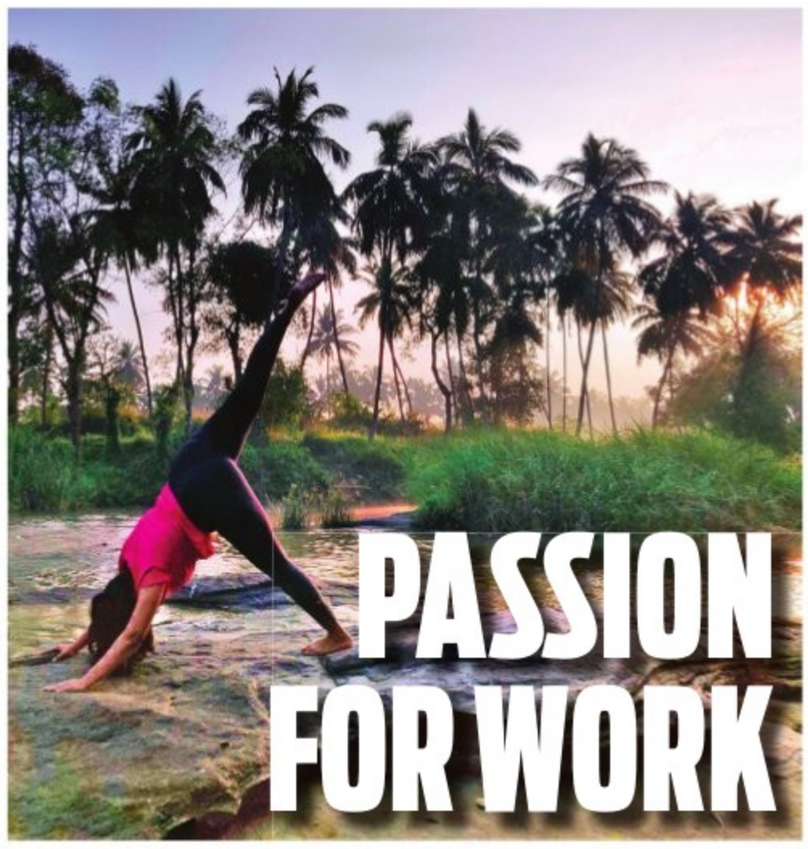
Quitting one's regular 9 to 5 jobs to make a living out of their passion is not everyone's cup of tea, but some youngsters are making it happen



PASSION FOR WORK

ANILA KURIAN

THE popular quote which says 'do what you love and you'll never work a day in your life' is quite familiar to many of us. But it's not always easy to leave behind a structured 9 to 5 job and make a living with one's passion. However, some young Bengalureans have braved up the challenge and pursued their passion, especially after being tired of the hectic work life since the pandemic.

Srividya G Venkatesh has been practising yoga since she was 17 years old but she never thought she could make a living out of it. Now 31 years old and having worked in the finance sector for six years, she realised that the pandemic has made her a 'couch potato'. The only activity she did was classical dancing. She says, "I love my work in the chartered accounting firm but I wanted to upscale from there. I honestly had no plans for taking up yoga as a full-time profession but I quit my 9 to 5 job to actually learn more about the accounting work, but the pandemic had other plans for me."

She couldn't enrol for the course as the dates were postponed every month. "How long could I sit around and wait for," she asked. So, when the second wave hit, she took to yoga. "I enrolled myself for the Samyak Yoga course which is a residential training programme to be a certified yoga instructor. This really helped me cope with a death in the family as well," says Venkatesh.

Unni George quit an Edtech company to join the F&B industry

After the month-long programme and a license in hand to train anywhere in India, the US and the UK, Venkatesh started getting clients from across the globe. "I started 10 Elephants Yoga where I take individual and group classes, and workshops too. I felt it was a great time for me embrace my passion as people now are more conscious about their well-being and want to take care of themselves. Yoga is a great way to do just that," she adds.

Another fitness enthusiast who quit his corporate world is Nikhil Sanjeev. He worked as an item data specialist for two years but that wasn't his cup of tea. Coming from a sports background, he found the desk job too monotonous. He says, "I wanted to quit a year ago but when Covid happened, I stuck around for another year. Meanwhile, I started participating in powerlifting events at my gym and started getting recognised there, something I wasn't getting at my corporate job. That was such a morale boost and helped me realise where I really belong."

He started looking for jobs at gyms, but due to the lockdowns and layoffs, he had very little luck. Nevertheless, he waited patiently. When he finally got the chance, he quit his corporate job and became a personal trainer. Sanjeev says, "I helped a 70-year-old woman, a cancer survivor weightlift. I've also helped many of my friends lose the pandemic weight."

Though he's working as a freelance personal trainer now and through online training, he hopes that things will get better soon and can go for more physical workouts. He says, "Financial stability plays a huge factor when you leave a structured job but I've been getting by alright. This field has great potential and things have definitely been picking up. More importantly, I chose my mental health over having to sit in front of a computer all day just for a monthly paycheck."

Twenty-nine-year-old Unni George found his passion when he joined his cousin, Ajay, for an ice cream pop up event. A former F&B professional quit his job before the pandemic and had joined an edtech company, but George was clearly not enjoying his work. "When my business partner asked if I wanted to join and help out the company Ulo Ice Cream, I took it on," he says, adding, "And I manage everything from making the ice cream to its marketing work."

Though he's loving what he's doing and calls it a "labour intensive job", he does miss the structure a 9 to 5 job normally provides. "Maybe it'll get better soon and we hope it will but Ulo is still a startup and we're figuring things out. But at least I'm doing what I love and that's satisfying enough," says George.

Art attack

Graffiti artwork by Rabah MK at Cooke Town| ASHISHKRISHNA HP

Four artistes collaborated to revamp a black spot on Davis Road and turned it into a graffiti masterpiece

SANATH PRASAD

IF you are wondering what happened to the black patched walls that succumbed to garbage disposals in Cooke Town, here is your chance to thank the graffiti and street artistes who have given those walls a colourful makeover. Graffiti artiste Rabah MK aka Left, street artiste Sidhanth Subbaiah, graffiti artiste Fabrice aka Blaze and street artiste Valentin Melchoir collaborated on August 22 to splash colours and revamp the "abandoned walls" at Cooke Town's Davis Road. Subbaiah, Valentin Melchoir and Fabrice run a wall art company that specialises in mural paintings for restaurants, pubs and corporate offices called Stick No Bills.

Rabah describes this 'graffiti jam' as an effort to use art as a tool of communicating freely. "I travelled to Bengaluru from Calicut in July following the collaboration with Stick No Bills. The abandoned wall wore a dirty look earlier with trash dumped all around. To me, art is communication. Graffiti artistes leave a mark with their names on walls before moving on to the next one. I left my first public mark in Bengaluru," says the 22-year-old, who is pursuing his post graduate in fashion management at National Institute of Fashion Technology, Hyderabad.

Similar to the concept of music jamming, graffiti jamming is when artistes come together to paint on walls. Melchoir, a resident of Cooke Town, says that the abandoned wall had remained an eyesore for many years. "We collaborated for a graffiti jam to beautify the wall and give it a colourful look. The purpose was not to send a message using art, but an effort to keep our surrounding garbage-free, hygienic and vibrant," says Melchoir, whose team has also undertaken mural works at Lingarajpuram.

Subbaiah also believes that an artiste must get his freedom to express himself through themes. Usually, the artiste looks for walls that are free from private and government players.

"It's common for an artiste to encounter problems with authorities. We have encountered the same with Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) as they demand paintings related to politics — a topic we stay away from. That's why we choose walls that are usually abandoned and free from any political affiliations. By doing so, we get the freedom to paint what we want," says Subbaiah, a Fraser Town resident.

FIT BIT

ADHO MUKHA MANDUKASANA

(DOWNWARD-FACING FROG POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'adho' means down, 'mukha' means facing, 'manduka' means frog and 'asana' means pose. This prone, hip-opening pose is known for deep stretching. It is considered beneficial when recovering from illnesses because it improves whole body circulation by opening and stretching into the hips. On a holistic level, it is said to be good for releasing emotional stress which accumulates in the hips, particularly worry or fear. However, it is advised that it be taken gently because the intensity of the hip opening releasing trapped emotions can leave one feeling vulnerable. It is associated with activating and balancing the Svadisthana chakra.

STEPS

- Come into Bharmanasana (Table Pose). Walk the knees out to the sides as wide as comfortable.
- Bring your ankles directly behind the knees with the feet turned out.
- Now, bring the elbows and forearms on to the floor with the palms flat on the floor. You may opt to press the palms together.
- Then, slowly exhale, pressing the hips towards the back wall until you feel a deep stretch in the hips and inner thighs.
- Breathe and hold for 3-6 breaths.
- To release the pose, rock the hips forward and either bring the palms under the shoulders and press back up into Table Pose, or walk the arms forward lowering the hips and whole body flat on the floor.
- Finally, rest in Balasana (Child's Pose).

BENEFITS

- Regular practice of this asana helps to reduce stress and anxiety.
- Helpful in opening the hip flexors, hamstrings and groins.
- This is the best asana to strengthen the quadriceps and inner thigh muscles.
- If you practise this asana regularly, it stretches the abdomen, chest and shoulders.
- It helps improve flexibility in the body.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who are suffering from sciatica or severe knee injuries should not practise this pose.
- If you have any recent injury to the knees or legs, avoid this asana.

ELUSIVE NON-VIOLENCE

Author: Jyotirmaya Sharma

Pages: 268

Here's a book attempting to give a new dimension to Mahatma Gandhi's non-violence or ahimsa philosophy. The author argues that, rather controversially, Gandhi's formulation of non-violence fails both as concept and practice, largely because of its location within the religious realm. The book also delves into how Gandhi offered a unique interpretation of Hindu texts and philosophical practice while engaging with certain strands of European and American intellectual traditions.

INSIDE TATA'S EMPIRE

TURNING PAGES

Peter Casey, author

'Cyrus Mistry fired!' exclaimed the India.com headline on 24 October 2016. Calling the move 'extremely unexpected' and its impact 'shocking', the article announced the seemingly sudden ouster of the chairman of Tata Sons.

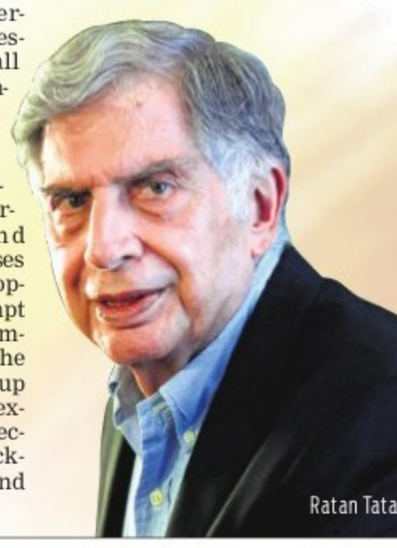
No Indian company is more iconic than Tata, the nation's largest conglomerate, founded in 1868 by one of India's national heroes, Jamsetji Tata. Composed of more than 130 separate firms, Tata has long been a source of tremendous pride for India. What made the news of the shake-up at the top more disturbing was that there was little public sign of trouble before that fateful day in October. There was no public scandal, no publicized act of gross mismanagement, no instance of 'proven corruption' prior to the 'sacking' of the Tata Group chairman. As NDTV put it, the event came 'without any prior warning or signal'. Amid 'shock waves both at home and abroad', NDTV asked: 'What triggered . . . the removal of Mr Mistry?' Chairmen and CEOs get fired all the time, but in India, 24 October 2016 will be remembered as one of the most significant in the history of business-certainly the most significant in India. That was the day that Cyrus Mistry was asked to step aside as the chairman of Tata Sons, the role he had only held for four years.

Since its founding in 1868, there had only been five previous chairmen of Tata Sons. None had ever been fired. Three had died in office, and the other two, J.R.D. Tata and Ratan Tata, were eighty-six and seventy-five, respectively, when they retired, so it certainly came as a shock to some in the business community when Mistry was relieved of his responsibilities at the relatively young age of fifty.

In the short time since Mistry was relieved of control, books have been written and many-thousand words committed to print, all presenting different versions of the events that led up to his firing. Some are more accurate than others. The net net, however, is that when an organization's board of directors loses confidence in its chairman and/or CEO, it is always time for a separation. That said, there was no one factor that caused the board to lose confidence in Mistry's leadership. There were many issues-some small, others large, all significant-that, taken together, forced the board to act. To fully understand how the events of Mistry's rise, tenure as chairman and dismissal unfolded, you have to understand the dynamics and complexities of how businesses at the highest levels in India operate. This book is an attempt to give the reader a more comprehensive picture of all of the events, all the forces leading up to that momentous event. It explains, as factually and objectively as possible, the backgrounds of the key players and organizations.

To appreciate the significance of the removal of Cyrus Mistry from the most influential position in business, we must understand how the House of Tata came to exist in the first place. This requires comprehending the dynamics and the intricate relationships that existed between several family dynasties-the Tatas, the Dinshaws, the Wadias and the Mistrys.

The Mistry and Tata families became inextricably intertwined in 1936, when Cyrus Mistry's grandfather, Shapoorji Pallonji Mistry, 'Go on Doing My Work and Increasing It' bought 17.5 per cent of Tata Sons, the Tata principal holding company.



Ratan Tata, industrialist

Shapoorji's father, Pallonji, was a builder. He was industrious but not yet wealthy in the 1860s, when Nusserwanji Tata and Dadabhoy Tata (his cousin and brother-in-law) were embarking on trade with China. The Tatas soon became prosperous, in contrast to the Mistrys of that time. It was only after Shapoorji founded Shapoorji Pallonji & Co. and progressed from being a journeyman builder to an increasingly high-powered contractor, building homes for Bombay's elite, that his fortune began to change. Among the wealthiest clients of Shapoorji Pallonji & Co. was Framroze Edulji Dinshaw, a prominent attorney, landowner and financier.

New book on investigation of Gandhi's assassination

THE Murderer, the Monarch and the Fakir is a fresh account of one of the most controversial political assassinations in contemporary history of Mahatma Gandhi. Based on previously unseen intelligence reports and police records, the book, to be released by Harper Collins on October 1, recreates the circumstances of his murder, the events leading up to it and the investigation afterwards. In doing so, it unearths a conspiracy that runs far deeper than a hate crime and challenges the popular narrative about the assassination that has persisted for the past 70 years.

The Murderer, the Monarch and the Fakir examines the potential role of princely states, hyper-masculinity and a militant right-wing in the context of a nation that had just won her independence. It relies on investigative journalism and new evidence set in a strong academic framework to unpack the significance of this tumultuous event.

"Arguably modern India's biggest political development, the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi finds a desultory mention in our history textbooks," the authors, Appu Esthose Suresh and Priyanka Kotamraju, said.

"This book presents new evidence that goes against popular narratives and unearths a conspiracy which ran much deeper, with an extraordinary cast of people representing varied interests directly or indirectly involved in it. This holds relevance today as in recent years, we have become preoccupied with either vigorously opposing or enthusiastically supporting the rehabilitation of central figures of the conspiracy, whereas our real aim should be the rehabilitation, critically and empathetically, of Gandhian thought."

"This book is an attempt to understand the political assassination in the context of new evidence to unpack its significance for our present and future," the authors added. -IANS

Author Namita Gokhale's family saga released

Namita Gokhale's family saga The Blind Matriarch, is set against the backdrop of the pandemic and explores the traditional bonds of the Indian joint family in the face of upheaval. The sprawling novel follows the life of the eponymous blind matriarch who lives on the topmost floor of an old house with many stories. Ebbing and flowing like the waves of a pandemic, the novel is a clear-eyed chronicle of the tragedies of India's encounter with the coronavirus, the cynicism and despair that accompanied it, and the resilience and strength of the human spirit. The imagery on the cover reflects the narrative of the protagonist, Matangi, worked lovingly upon, even as her eyesight began abandoning her. Most jackets are the beginning of a book's journey in the reader's hands, but here it is also the very fabric of the book. Gokhale says The Blind Matriarch, which she began just before the pandemic set in, "followed through on thoughts and themes from many of my previous novels. It is a quiet book, paced in a real-time narrative of lock-down days, which examines the dynamics of the Indian joint family. The central character, the blind matriarch Matangi Ma, has remained in my heart and mind long after I finished the book". – IANS

Knowledge half full

URBAN BOURBON
Hriday Ranjan
Writer, comedian

ALL through our school years, we were told this quote by our teachers — 'Half-knowledge is dangerous'. It always struck me as a vague statement, like the other lines our teachers would throw at us — 'A stitch in time saves nine' or 'Say no to drugs!'

The example given was often of Abhimanyu. If you're unfamiliar with our mythology, here's a quick recap (before you leave to Pakistan!). Abhimanyu was in his mother Subhadra's womb when his father Arjuna explained to her the correct process to penetrate the Chakravyuh — the most complex battle position in the Mahabharata. While still in the womb, Abhimanyu learnt how to penetrate the Chakravyuh, the first case of a digital course. But since Arjuna did not complete the instructions, Abhimanyu only had half-knowledge about the Chakravyuh. Later in the war, young Abhimanyu penetrates the Chakravyuh but is surrounded and heinously killed by the Kauravas. This story was told to us by our teachers as a warning against 'half-knowledge'.

But modern times and the internet have flipped the phrase upside-down. In our times, half-knowledge is a luxury we enjoy, and can go a long way in leading a happy, fulfilling life. In fact, half-knowledge is celebrated in modern work cultures. Yours Truly has used the internet to learn a number of skills. I learnt calligraphy off the Internet, and also how to play the guitar. I taught myself how to bowl a short ball in cricket from YouTube, and often deep-dive into subjects that I'd never dreamt of earlier — all thanks to the internet. I could never become a master in these subjects; never acquire full-knowledge. But then, all I'm looking for is some likes on Instagram!

But unfortunately, our entire education system is skewed towards a system where you begin by getting a broad understanding of a number of subjects, but then gradually microscopically zoom into your interest of choice. I studied five years of Commerce in high school and college. Five years of desperately trying to tally columns in balance sheets and ledgers, till I developed a morbid fear of anything that resembles a table. I sit on the floor and have lunch just to avoid the dining table!

In today's world, half-knowledge is celebrated. CEOs of multinational companies are expected to have knowledge of leadership, marketing, and sales that is not just specific knowledge in one field. When school captains are chosen, it is not simply on the basis of academics, but also sports and dramatics. When we choose a partner for ourselves, we look for holistic and wholesome people. We are looking for a friend, lover and roommate. Corporates routinely encourage employees to do online courses to gather knowledge in various fields.

In the modern world, half-knowledge is very powerful. It's a pity Abhimanyu wasn't aware of the benefits of half-knowledge. If he had read some management books, he'd know that all he had to do was treat the Chakravyuh as a project. He would have initiated KT (knowledge transfer), and delegated aspects of the projects to unpaid interns. He'd have set targets and handed out authority and responsibility to his team members. In fact, as Arjuna's son, he could have gotten angel investment from the gods too!

I hope teachers aren't parroting the line 'Half-knowledge is dangerous' in schools anymore. In fact, the appropriate line should be altered to 'Half-knowledge is dangerous in mythological battles, but could help one reach the top of the corporate ladder in modern settings'.

ASHIKA RANGANATH TO HEADLINE A MEDICAL THRILLER O_2

The actor in her chat with CE talks about juggling between commercial and content-based subjects, and working in Puneeth Rajkumar's PRK Productions' upcoming film

A SHARADHAA

Ashika Ranganath

Ashika Ranganath, who wants to juggle between commercial and content-oriented subjects, has greenlit PRK Productions' upcoming film, O_2. The medical thriller, which will be directed by debutants Raghav and Prashanth Raj, will be made under Puneeth Rajkumar's home banner. "With my experience as an actor, I've seen how my script choices have changed. Moreover, with content-based cinema ruling the roost, and OTT's rise, I felt it's time to be part of the game, and O2 will be my first attempt towards that end," says Ashika, who is currently busy shooting for her Tamil debut. The Sargunam directorial made under Lyca Productions banner will star Atharva Murali opposite Ashika.

Ashika, who loved the story written by Raghav and Prashanth, says O_2 will be a film that will not feature her as a regular heroine. "Usually, when it comes to the heroine as a protagonist, the character is shown to be a victim. That way, O_2 offered me something unique and I felt close to the subject," says Ashika, adding, "I have three good commercial films — Avatar Purusha, Raymo, and Madagaja in my kitty. It is equally important for me to connect with the audience with some intense portrayals that will help me showcase my versatility."

O_2 will be the next film from producer Ashwini Puneeth Rajkumar, and after Kavaludaari, Mayabazar2016 and French Biriyani, this is yet another interesting project coming from their banner. The team is in the process of finalising the rest of the cast, and in all likelihood, and the project will go on floors in October.

THE COLOR OF TOMATO WILL BE A NEW GENRE TO ME: PRATHAP NARAYAN

CE FEATURES

PRATHAP Narayan, who made his debut with Benkipatna, has some interesting projects lined up his sleeve. The actor has bagged the lead role in The Color of Tomato, which will be directed by Thayi Lokesh. Written by Kotiganahalli Ramaiah, the project will be bankrolled by Swathi Kumar's 1 To 100 Dream Movies banners. The project commenced with a simple muhurath held recently, and the first-look teaser created quite the buzz.

Theatre artiste Y G Uma, who was part of the recent Telugu film, Cinema Bandi, is working in the film, and will star opposite Prathap. Senior actor B Suresha will also be seen in a prominent character

Prathap, who is juggling between working in an MNC and following his passion towards acting, is glad to be part of so many good films. "I did take a break from work to concentrate on my acting career, but the pandemic took me back to my 9 to 5 job, and now I am juggling between my two careers," he says. Talking about his role in The Color of Tomato, Prathap says it is a character he hasn't played before. "He is someone who is aggressive, talks less and expresses more with action. This is a story based in Kolar and revolves around a large tomato market. This will be a new genre to me," he says.

The film is directed by Thayi Lokesh, and has theatre artiste and Cinema Bandi actor Y G Uma playing the female lead

The Color of Tomato has Arjun Ramu scoring the music and Prashanth Sagar handling the camerawork. Prathap's other projects include Shabari -- Searching for Ravana, and Thrivadam, which are at different stages of production.

Keegan-Michael Key joins Timothee Chalamet in Willy Wonka prequel

Keegan-Michael Key

Timothee Chalamet

CE FEATURES

It was reported earlier that actor Timothee Chalamet is playing a younger version of the famous chocolatier character Willy Wonka in the upcoming musical, Wonka. Now, the film has roped in actor Keegan-Michael Key to play a pivotal role.

The prequel film will explore Willy Wonka's days of upbringing, and how he became the famous chocolatier. The movie will be directed by Paddington-helmer Paul King from the screenplay he wrote with Simon Farnaby.

Details about Key's role in the film is kept under wraps.

Notably, fans remember Willy Wonka well from the 1971 Mel Stuart film Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory and the 2005-reboot Charlie and the Chocolate Factory directed by Tim Burton. Gene Wilder portrayed Willy Wonka in the former, while Johnny Depp embodied the role in Burton's reimagination.

The franchise is based on Roald Dahl's popular children's book Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, a story that follows a poor boy named Charlie Bucket, who wins a golden ticket to tour the world-famous, heavily guarded chocolate factory run by Willy Wonka.

Wonka will reportedly not feature appearances from Charlie and the company since the prequel takes place before the chocolate factory opened.

Abhishek Banerjee is a director's actor: Ashwiny Iyer Tiwari

SHILAJIT MITRA

A still from the film

ASHWINY Iyer Tiwari knows a thing or two about love—its quirks, its peculiarities. Her sophomore Hindi feature, Bareilly Ki Barfi (2017), was one of the funniest romantic-comedies of the past decade. It could be the reason she was tapped for Ankahi Kahaniya, an anthology of three unique love stories releasing on Netflix. Yet, nothing about Ashwiny's short—starring Abhishek Banerjee as a man falling for a mannequin—has the same rapid-fire associations of Bareilly. It looks quieter, gentler and heavily stripped down. It's a clear break for a director well versed in the slang of contemporary romance.

"I was clear from the start I wanted to do something new," Ashwiny shares. "There's a little quirky fantasy in this story. It's about falling in love not with a human being but with an object. It's something we have all experienced in our lives, a sense of deep attachment or closeness with an object."

Ashwiny cracked the story with co-writers Piyush Gupta, Shreyas Jain and Nitesh Tiwari. The protagonist, Pradip (Abhishek), is an immigrant in Mumbai. With no one to talk to in the bustling city, he grows fond of a store mannequin. He cradles her, goes on taxi rides with her, and names her 'Pari'. Ashwiny could connect the underlying emotion to something she experienced as a child.

"My mother had a saree turned into a rajai. It was really close to my heart. I didn't care how torn or dirty it was. I cried the day she threw it way."

Of course, object attachment is not easily portrayed on screen. A screen direction on the page read—'Pradip looks at the mannequin and the mannequin smiles back.' How do you direct something like that? "It was a different kind of challenge," Ashwiny admits. Still, having an actor like Abhishek, with his keen sense of nuances, saw her through.

"This film is almost like an one-act play," Ashwiny says. "It was important that Abhishek understood both the dynamics at play, of the man and the mannequin. He is a director's actor. He has explored himself in this story in a way he has never done before."
